Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Chief Marshal of To-day's Great Home Week Parade

VAST CROWD CHEERS MARCHING HOSTS IN GREAT CIVIC PAGEANT

Streets Thronged With Spectators as Parade Passes With Banners Flying and Bands Playing---Start Was Prompt.

Enormous crowds, eclipsing in numbers any others that ever gathered in Boston for a similar affair, witnessed the grand military and civic parade to-day as one of the big features of the Old Home Week celebration.

Extraordinary precautions had to be taken by the police to prevent accidents. Ambulances and patrol wagons were stationed at every crossing. Chains instead of ropes were necessary to hold the throngs in check.

12,000 Men in Marching Host.

Twelve thousand men marched in the parade, under the leadership of Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A., retired. In the place of honor rode the most distinguished guest of the celebration, Charles W. Fairbanks, Vice-President of the United States. With him was Mayor Fitzgerald.

They rode in the Second Division, escorted by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, under the command of Major H. G. Jordan.

The escort of General Miles was the company of Worcester Continentals, their picturesque uniform making a fine background for the sombre-clad civilians who composed the staff of the chief marshal.

Colonel Charles H. Cole, Jr., former police commissioner, was chief of staff. Others on the staff included members of the city government with aides from the various commands. Colonel A. Henry Higginson was conspicuous as one of the staff.

Some three miles long, it was expected that the parade would be late in starting, but with every regard for exactness, General Miles gave the order to march at 11:05.

Long before that hour the Public Garden, Beacon, Arlington and Marlborough streets and Commonwealth avenue were filled with the throng who had been brought in from out of town by the electrics, every one of which entering the subway was filled to the limit.

EXTRA POLICE DETAIL.

Every police officer that could be spared from actual duty was ordered out for the work of holding the crowds in check. At 10:30 Captain Donovan, who was in command at the starting point, had to call on his reserves to clear the way, so that the work of forming the parade could move.

It was a grand sight that greeted the eyes of the cheering thousands. The firm, erect figure of the man who had fought in every war in which his country had engaged since he was old enough to shoulder a musket was raised and immediately the plaudits of the crowd, and General Miles was compelled to doff his tall silk hat again and again.

His staff seemed imbued with his dignity. Stiff-backed they rode, and endeavored to manage their horses in the same easy, graceful manner that the old soldier did his. Some almost succeeded.

Jackies Are Cheered.

The 2,000 soldiers and sailors from the warships were not forgotten. They are always welcomed in a parade in Boston, and their swinging, exact formation brought round after round of cheers.

The sailors and marines marched in the First Division, directly behind the chief marshal and his staff.

This was the route of the parade, which it was figured would take three hours to pass a given point:

Arlington street to Beacon street, to Charles street to Park square, to Columbus avenue, to Berkeley street, to Tremont street, to Eliot street, to Washington street, to Summer street, to High street, to Pearl street, to Milk street, to Broad street, to State street, to Devonshire street, to Washington street, to Hanover street, to Tremont row, to Tremont street, to Boylston street, to Park square, where the parade is dismissed.

In addition to the parade feature of to-day's programme, there are many smaller events to attract and please the visitors to Boston.

The big feature of the evening will be the dedication of the new $3,000,000 Cambridge bridge, with illumination and fireworks.

Prize Winners in Playout.

In the great playout of the Veteran Firemen at the Frog Pond on the Common yesterday afternoon, the prizes were awarded as follows:

GIRL ATTACKED BY STRANGLER FIGHTS HIM OFF; 2 DEAD

IMPORTANT CLUE TO-DAY TO FIEND WHO HAS TERRORIZED CITY.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The police are working to-day on an important clue which they think will lead to the arrest of the "Jack-the-Strangler" who killed a young woman in an East Nineteenth street areaway early yesterday, another one at No. 204 Nineteenth street, and who is supposed to have been driven away by Miss Julia Krumsheik, a plucky music teacher, who drove off the would-be slayer with her hatpin.

The strangler may be captured by the police within a few hours. Detective were sent to Jersey City to search through a silk mill for a man answering the description of the individual who had figured in the young woman's life for several months. This man was known as Wilson when the girl lived in Jersey City. He was known as Davido when the girl lived with Mrs. Gussie Boyd at No. 16 East Twenty-seventh street, Manhattan, and it was he who, under the name of Charles Davis or Davison rented the room for her in which she was slain. The police were of the opinion to-day that the woman had been killed because of jealousy and anger.

The mutilation of the body has detectives to believe that the murderer is the same who killed and mutilated Gussie Pfeiffer, the young embroidery worker whose body was found under the historic oak on the old Pelham road in the Bronx in September, 1905. Both girls were strangled by persons of gorilla-like strength and the victims similarly maltreated.

Crime Wave Unchecked.

The wave of crime which has terrified the metropolis seems to have been unchecked. The police are on the hunt, and that is the best there is in hope. Meantime the public is wondering what to-morrow's hideous record will show.

Within ten hours the bodies of two strangled women were found at points three or four miles apart.

At No. 204 Nineteenth street the body of a young woman of about twenty-five years was found in a cellar. Marks on her throat told the story of the manner of her death. After she had been killed her slayer mutilated her torso. This woman has not been identified.

The other victim was Mrs. Sophia Kerherer, who had been living at No. 475 West Twenty-second street as the wife of a man who had given the name of Davis or Davidson.

A necktie had been drawn about her throat and the features told of the agony she had suffered. Here, too, there were marks of mutilation which came after death.

In many respects the crime was the most revolting of the many of this character which have stained the annals of the city, and that the victim was to all appearances a respectable working girl, adds to the horror of the deed.

Soon after 4 o'clock yesterday Patrolman Healy of the East Eighty-eighth street station, passed the house at No. 204 East Nineteenth street. Steps led from the sidewalk, parallel with the street, down to the basement, where there is a narrow, stone floored space in front of the basement door.

Lying in this place the policeman saw the body of a woman.

The autopsy revealed the fact that the woman had probably not tasted food for eighteen or twenty hours, and she must have been greatly weakened from hunger when attacked.

Dr. Crascaden, who arrived with the Presbyterian Hospital ambulance, in response to the summons of Patrolman Healy, found the body still warm, showing that the woman had been dead only a few hours. Coroner's Physician Lahane performed an autopsy after the body had been removed to the morgue.

Cruely Maltreated.

He stated that the woman had been terribly maltreated prior to her murder, and that the crime must have been committed by one or more men of enormous strength.

Lieutenants McMullen and Miller of headquarters and Detectives Fay, Snydecker, Farley and Vise of the East Eighty-eighth street station were assigned to the case. They at once began a house to house canvass of the neighborhood, but failed to find any person who knew the dead woman or had heard any sounds of a struggle during the morning.

The sole clue upon which the detectives

1,500 MINERS OUT IN PENNSYLVANIA

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 31.—Fifteen hundred miners and laborers are on strike at the Banning, Wick Haven and Walnutt mines of the Pittsburg Coal Company. Unless certain demands are satisfied to-day the big Eureka works, and in fact all the mines along the Youghiogeny, will be forced to close down in sympathy with the laborers, who demand an eight-hour day.

CLEARS THE COMPLEXION BY SIMPLE METHOD

The large crowds at the toilet goods department of Houghton & Dutton's store the past week were occasioned by the sale of the wonderful beautifier, Madame Burgett's World-Renowned Face Bleach, at the greatly reduced price of nineteen cents per bottle. At this figure any one can afford to be beautiful.

The sale will be continued this week. Face Bleach is the marvelous remedy which removes effectually all freckles, pimples, blackheads, sallowness, moth patches, wrinkles not caused by facial expression, and beautifies any muddy, sooty skin.—Ads.

YALE MISSIONARY DROWNED IN CHINA

WELLESLEY, July 30.—Word was received here of the death by drowning of Rev. Warren B. Seabury, aged 30, a founder of the Yale mission in China, while bathing in Kuling.

News was received by his father, the Rev. Joseph B. Seabury of Walnut street, Wellesley Hills, by a message from Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., secretary of Yale, who had earlier in the day received a cablegram from China.

BOSTON ACTRESS TO WED LONDON AUTHOR

The announcement in this city of the marriage of Miss Edith Gordon Walker of Boston, a Wellesley College girl who has achieved fame on the London stage, to William Caine, a young English playwright in London on July 26 caused considerable surprise. While Miss Walker's friends knew of her engagement to Mr. Caine, the wedding was not expected for at least a month.

POSTMASTER HAS TO CARRY MAIL

GLOUCESTER, July 31.—Because of the stress of enormous Summer business and the insufficient number of carriers provided by the Postoffice Department, Postmaster Charles D. Brown, his assistant, H. V. Lakeman, and several office clerks, have been forced for the past few days to personally go out and deliver the mail to the rich visitors who are sojourning here.

4 DIE, 2 TRAINS BURN AS ENGINE BLOWS UP

By Boston American Leased Wire.

MILAN, Tenn., July 31.—Four were killed, one fatally hurt and ten seriously injured by the explosion of a boiler of an engine attached to an Illinois Central fruit train near here to-day. The train was running at a high rate of speed when the boiler, with a terrific report, blew up. The train was wrecked and fired. The flames spread to another freight train on a siding, destroying it.

The dead are: Engineer Maloney, Chicago; Robert Henderson, Sycamore, Jack son, Tenn.; two tramps, A. B. Lynch, son, Tenn.; two tramps. A. B. Lynch, Jackson was fatally injured.

"Jack the Ripper" Returns to Terrify New York Women

POLICE BAFFLED BY HIDEOUS DEATH MYSTERY OF BEAUTIFUL GIRL.

have to work is in the imprint on a pair of tan shoes found in the passageway leading to the cellar. In these words, "The Whirl of the Town," a production which was presented several years ago by George W. Lederer at the Casino Theatre.

In lieu of something more formidable the police are under the impression that the "strangler's" victim was either a member of the company or else purchased the shoes when the wardrobe of the company was sold at a private sale.

The scene of the murder is within a few blocks of the locality where the crime wave has completely terrorized the residents.

WORK OF "RIPPER."

"Every indication," said Coroner's Physician Lehane, who performed the autopsy, "points to the work of a 'ripper.' The crime was not one of the ordinary kind. It was not murder for revenge or hate, but the work of a fiend."

Policeman Healy was passing the house when he saw in the hallway a pair of women's tan shoes. They looked as though they might have been those of a small girl. Healy picked them up and walked through the hall in an effort to find the owner. Failing, he walked to the basement thinking, perhaps, a scolded child had sought retreat there. With a lighted match he walked toward a coal bin. There lay the woman's body with her head pressed against the boards.

In one corner of the cellar lay a beautiful white silk waist torn to shreds. Other garments of a fine quality were there. When Coroner's Physician Lehane arrived he borrowed several lamps from tenants in the big building and began his examinations.

After the body had been taken to the morgue, the police made another examination of the clothing in the hope that they would find a better clue. These efforts were unavailing, however, for there was not even a scrap of paper in the woman's pockets. If she wore rings or any jewelry the murderer had removed them.

The left hand of the woman was entirely blue and the coroner could not determine whether it had previously borne a ring.

The woman was about five feet five inches in height and weighed approximately 135 pounds. Her eyes were a deep brown. The lashes were heavy and black. Just above her left eye was a deep gash which was probably made when the murderer hurled her against the coal bin. The long, black tresses bore evidence that the fiend had dragged her about the floor.

BEGIN MAN HUNT.

Immediately after the autopsy at the morgue was concluded Dr. Lehane held a hurried conference with Lieutenants Clay, McMullen and Miller and Detective Farley. They admitted they did not have the least semblance of a plausible clue, but redoubled their efforts of the early hour following the finding of the body.

The Central Office men questioned hundreds of persons in Ninetieth street and vicinity in an endeavor to learn if a cab had been seen during the night. No one could be found who had seen the girl, previous to the murder.

Mrs. Mary Wolf, a woman of seventy-five years, is a dweller in the basement. She told the police she was visiting during the night and that she returned home about 10 o'clock. Up to that hour there was no one in the cellar. The door had been securely locked, and it was in this condition when she got home.

She had been troubled with insomnia and read until midnight. She lay in bed fully an hour longer before she fell into a sleep. She had heard no voices or noises in the basement.

It was the story of Mrs. Wolf that led the police to believe the girl was drugged, murdered and her body brought to the cellar.

The deduction was that anyone knowing the aged woman lived in the cellar would not have been so daring as to bring the victim there.

On the two steps leading to the scene were a few drops of blood. Dr. Lehane could not tell from his examination whether a stiletto had been used on the girl. The body was too horribly mangled for the physician to determine.

Detectives from both police headquarters and the East Eighty-eighth street station went through the neighborhood and summoned fully two hundred persons who examined the body. No one could recognize the girl's features and the impression was left that she had not lived in the vicinity.

A search was also made for the woman's hat, but it could not be found.

The woman is either of Cuban, Spanish or Armenian descent. Her features were regular and pretty, but her complexion was slightly olive.

REPORT SAYS "RIPPER."

At the coroner's office the official report read that the woman was strangled and then attacked by the "Ripper."

Mrs. Maggie Demos of No. 48 East End avenue, Manhattan, and Mrs. Agnes McCullagh of No. 143 Twenty-eighth street, Brooklyn, both of whom have daughters missing, visited the morgue in the afternoon but neither was able to identify the slasher's victim.

The body of the other victim was found in a rooming house at No. 475 West Twenty-second street. She had been strangled to death with a necktie. She was identified as Sophie Kerherer, former wif of Jacob Kerherer, a former hotel keeper in Buffalo. He now lives with his mother, at No. 38 Barry place, in that city.

Working upon advices received from New York the Buffalo authorities learned that Sophie Kerherer disappeared most mysteriously some months ago, and for a long time her whereabouts was unknown. It is believed that the second woman strangled in New York was a friend of the Kerherer woman. No one here seems to know the second woman's name, except that which is contained in the dispatches.

Before her marriage the Kerherer woman was Sophie Trainer, of Tonawanda. She was about 32 years old. Several years ago Jacob Kerherer, then a resident of Tonawanda, became infatuated with the woman and they were married. They settled in Tonawanda and as far as it can be learned they had no serious differences.

WOMAN LEFT HOME.

In the fore part of last November Mrs. Kerherer slipped away from home. She did not hint to anyone, even her husband, of her intentions in quitting Tonawanda. She did not appear at her home that night, and she could not be found, although a thorough search of the city was made. The police of Buffalo and the surrounding towns were notified to be on the lookout for the woman.

Her relatives were beginning to mourn her as dead, when one day a few months ago came a letter from Jersey City. It was from the missing woman. She mentioned that she was living with another woman. She mentioned the name of the woman in the letter, but the letter cannot be found. This fact leads the relations of the dead woman to the belief that the other murdered woman was her companion.

POLICE ORDERS MAR PROVIDENCE OLD HOME

CAPTAIN'S EDICT BARS SALE OF CONFETTI AND "TICKLERS."

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 31.—Acting on his own authority, Police Captain Melville Stone of the central station put a damper on the Old Home Week celebration when he issued orders to all stores in his district to stop the sale of confetti and Japanese ticklers.

Chairman Henry A. Barker, of the Republican City Committee is wroth over the action of the police.

"I don't believe the police have a right to go into the stores and order them to stop the sale of confetti and the ticklers," he said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "It is a piece of narrow-minded business."

Upholds the Captain.

The executive committee of the celebration organization is up in arms over the order. Chairman William H. Luther of the Board of Police said that Captain Stone had a perfect right to act as he did.

So far as is known the action of the police was due to the scattering of the confetti in the streets and to the fact that small boys dipped the ticklers in lamp black and spotted quite a few faces.

Despite the police order the immense crowd on the streets last night used both confetti and the ticklers. Whether the stores will obey the mandate of Captain Stone remains to be seen.

It is claimed by the general committee that in more ways than one the city government has interfered with making Old Home Week a success. At first no appropriation was made and then came the $2,500 to help out. Permit to use the land owned by the city between the State House and the Union depot as a midway was refused because the revenue was to be used by the committee and not turned into the city treasury.

The same excuse was given when the committee wanted to erect grand stands in Exchange place and use the revenue for the celebration. "The proceeds must be turned into the city," was the decision of the city solicitor.

When the committee applied for a permit to have a barge floated down the river on Friday night, Illumination Night, the officials decided that in order to do that the barge must be equipped with life preservers, one for each person aboard, and each life preserver must be stamped with the name of the barge. This ultimatum ended the barge idea.

What was termed the degeneration of the liberty of carnival celebration into a state of license on the part of a sparse minority of the Old Home Week celebrators last evening was deprecated in a statement made by Frederick W. Aldred, secretary of the Old Home Week Committee.

Appeals for Order.

Mr. Aldred, acting for the Old Home Week committee, made an appeal, in the name of the fair fame of the city, for each citizen to do his best to insure orderly conduct and proper self-restraint upon the part of all, in order that the regrettable actions of the few should not adversely affect the enjoyment on the part of the vast majority during the remainder of the week's celebration.

The physicians are up in arms against the use of the so-called "Japanese tickler," declaring that it is a danger to the public health and that these toys are more than liable to carry the germs of tuberculosis and diphtheria. Several prominent physicians, surgeons and other scientific men made complaint to the authorities of the city yesterday asking that their use be prohibited by the police.

Crowds such as this city never dreamed of literally packed the down-town thoroughfares from early dusk until midnight and the feeling of merriment registered its greatest strength since the Old Home Week celebration began.

There was no letup in the good time which the gay celebrators took it upon themselves to create, and as a result there was enough sport to satisfy all. It was estimated that at least 30,000 people were on the streets during the evening.

Declares Magill and Beautiful Bride Will Be Freed of Murder Charge

Mrs. Faye Graham Magill, bride accused with husband in murder mystery.

Fortune Teller Foretold Death of Mrs. Pet Magill, Say Clinton Folk.

CLINTON, Ill., July 31.—"This grand jury will never return indictments against Fred and Faye Magill. They are hunting for evidence that does not exist."

This statement was made by Attorney A. R. Lemon, representing the accused.

The grand jury heard the testimony of about sixteen witnesses yesterday. There are still forty witnesses.

Probably the most damaging evidence the investigation has developed is that of Richard Houghton, proprietor of a little hotel in Bloomington, who was averse to testifying.

Houghton declared Fred H. Magill and Faye Graham were at his hotel two or three nights before Pet Magill's death. It is said Houghton told the Grand Jury they were overheard plotting to kill Pet Magill.

The Grand Jury issued a statement for Frank Lemon, one of the attorneys for the Magills. It is thought he will be asked concerning the whereabouts of Margaret Magill and to produce letters alleged to have been written by Pet Magill.

As Judge Cochran adjourned court today until Friday, there is no way in which Lemon can be forced to produce the letters, a court order not being available.

State's Attorney Miller declares he will be able to indict the Magills even if the doctors fail to find traces of poison.

A New Sensation.

A new sensation has developed in the Magill case and State's Attorney Miller is now hunting for the palmist and seer who foretold Mrs. Pet Magill's death a month before she was found dead.

Faye Graham, the nineteen-year-old wife of the banker, and his daughter, Marguerite, heard the prediction.

According to the story told to State's Attorney Miller, Faye Graham broke down and wept bitterly during the progress of the reading, and cried "It is not so," and "How could you know this?"

Having lost his battle to compel the State to reveal its evidence at a preliminary hearing, Attorney R. A. Lemon, chief counsel for the banker accused of the murder of his wife, has decided on a new course to learn what evidence the State holds against his clients.

"I am going to have the coroner reopen the inquest," he said.

If he succeeds he will summon every witness he knows to have been called and examined by the State's attorney.

By examining them he can learn the State's evidence.

Seeress Foretells Death.

Mrs. A. E. Kibby, a Spiritualist, at a seance held in Clinton last April foretold to Marguerite and Mrs. Faye Graham-Magill that Mrs. Pet Magill would commit suicide.

According to the story which comes from the defence Mrs. Kibby declared that Mrs. Pet Magill would commit suicide by poisoning herself because of the loss of her husband's love, which he had transferred to Faye Graham.

The story also runs that Marguerite broke down and wept bitterly. She is said to have turned upon her companion in anger, but was assured by the latter that she had no intention of displacing the girl's mother in the affections of her father.

Saw Magill in Trance.

It is thought by some that Mrs. Kibby will be a witness for the defense. By some it is said that Pet Magill was a spiritualist and often had told her husband that his deception had been revealed to her while she was in a trance.

Further, it is claimed that as a spiritualist, believing that at the wife's death, her spirit guards the husband, she committed suicide in order to watch over Magill.

It is believed the defense will present testimony to show that the dead woman was a spiritualist in order to show how her mind might have been so wrought up as to lead her to self-destruction.

FLAY HIGHWAY BOARD IN TELEPHONE HEARING

SENSATIONAL CHARGES AGAINST STATE OFFICIALS BY LAWYER WHITMAN.

The stormiest session which has yet marked the hearing before the Highway Commission upin the subject of telephone rates was held to-day.

Attorney Whitman, representing the petitioners who have asked that the rates be investigated, scored Chairman McClintock and the other members of the commission, declaring that by their course in the hearing they had already undermined public confidence in whatever report they might make.

Against the opposition of the attorney for the telephone company, Attorney Whitman secured admissions from George H. Dresser, general manager of the company, to the effect that there are almost two foremen for each workman on some of the jobs and that there is waste in the employment department.

Attorney Whitman denounced the commission for having opposed a public hearing.

"That satement," cried Chairman McClintock, "is absolutely false. We did not oppose a public hearing."

"Not after the Governor of the State had declared that there should be one," retorted Whitman. "As to whether you did at first I prefer to stand by the record."

Charges and counter charges were passed from Whitman on one side to the Commissioners and the attorney for the telephone company on the other.

"You have no right to refuse me latitude in this inquiry," Whitman shouted. "I have the right to go into more matters than the mere payroll. But you refuse even to let me go into that in the fashion I desire.

"This New England Company is owned by a foreign corporation which owns forty-four companies throughout the country. Corruption and bribery exist all over the country as the result of the work of this company. It is time to stamp it out in Massachusetts."

OLD HOME WEEK VISITOR HELD UP

F. A. Marks, who lives at No. 126 Bay street, Taunton, reported at Old Home Week headquarters to-day that last night, while he was sleeping peacefully on the front steps of a building in some street near the Common four men held him while two others went through his pockets.

He says they got $5, all the money he had with him. With 25 cents that was advanced to him to-day he telegraphed his employer in Taunton and will not stay in Boston for the rest of the festivities.

Big Grandstands Filled.

On Tremont street the huge grandstands erected by the city were filled. In one of them 1,250 school children, forming a living flag, sang patriotic airs as the parade moved by. Many was the cheer and wave of colors that the children got as the hosts marched by their stand.

Despite the fact that part of the parade was made up of trade features, many of them were so unique as to bring out cheers from the crowds.

The Municipal Printing plant with a big representation had along two real printer's devils who created much merriment. In their tight-fitting raiment the devils looked anything but comfortable.

CHINESE SOCIETIES APPROPRIATE $5,000 FOR CELEBRATIONS

Not to be outdone by other nationalities, the Chinese located in Chinatown are having a gala time in honor of Old Home Week, the various societies having appropriated over $5,000 for a proper celebration. Visiting Orientals from all sections of New England and the Middle Atlantic States, numbering over 400, are enjoying themselves as the guests of their relatives.

The decorations along Harrison avenue and Oxford street and place outrivals that of the Chinese New Year. Hundreds of flags and bunting are displayed on all the buildings while the big yellow flag of China with the black dragon is conspicuous. The Chinese Reform Association, the Leon Tong Society and the Chinese Masons' buildings are especially conspicuous in the color scheme. The Red Dragon decorations consists of the usual flags and bunting and an especial feature is a number of colored electric lights on small arch posts over the second and third stories.

A number of banquets have been arranged and the celebration will include a series of fireworks displays in charge of Yee Wah and Soo Wing, two of the prominent business men.

MOVING DAY? DEMOCRATS OUT OF CASH

The rent for the new State headquarters at No. 85 State street, paid u puntil tomorrow, and with no funds in the strong box to carry the organization along after that date, the Democratic State Committee is in sore straits, such as it has hardly known since it left the Aldine Building in Tremont street, with the rent long overdue and with talk of procedure in the courts.

"What yo' gwine 'er do when the rent comes 'round?" Daniel J. Kiley, the new chairman of the Executive Committee, wanted to know at yesterday's meeting of the full State Committee.

"Pay it!" said Daniel P. Twomey of Springfield.

"What with?" Kiley persisted; "there's hardly anything in the box."

Nomination for Sale?

Former Committee Treasurer George T. McLaughlin revived a suggestion of other days. "Let Mr. Kiley ad Mr. McNary call on the two gubernatorial candidates, Bartlett and Whitney," he said; "tell them of our plight—and see what will happen."

Committeeman O'Keefe of Everett, the same who embarrassed Henry M. Whitney at Marblehead by asking "How about the merger?" objected so strenuously that McLaughlin withdrew the suggestion. "What are we doing?" asked O'Keefe. "Putting the nomination on the block? Are we ofr sale to the highest bidder? Assess the State committeemen; be businesslike; pay as you go and win and hold the sincere respect of the people."

Linehan on Committee.

State Senator Frank J. Linehan was elected, 15 to 11, over State Senator MacLeod of Cambridge to fill the State Committee vacancy caused by the resignation of Grenville S. MacFarland, now of the Independence League. There was one vote for John W. Cummings of Fall River.

Later Chairman John P. Feeney named for Representative Daniel J. Kiley as Mr. MacFarland's successor in the chairmanship of the executive committee.

BOSTON AN INSPIRATION TO EVERY OLD HOME COMER

HUB IS CENTRE OF AMERICAN HISTORY, DECLARES REV. A. E. GEORGE.

By Rev. A. E. George.

Boston is truly the hub of the universe during Old Home Week. When you come back to this old city and renew the scenes of your childhood days, it maybe, you do something more than this, you come back to the importance of American history. This city stands in an unique position before the United States. Everyone, who is at all familiar with our national history, must know something about Boston in the past and the part it played so effectively in shaping the destiny of this country.

You recall the names of Samuel Adams, James Otis, John Adams, John Hancock, Joseph Warren, William Lloyd Garrison, Wendell Phillips, Parker, Channing, Lowell, Emerson, Sumner and Andrew. These names mean something of national importance, and they will always make Boston mean something in a national and literary way.

When you tread the streets of the old city you can't forget there is an inspiration in the sites of old places now covered by modern buildings, and you will be glad to think and speculate over what took place in history and will forever make this city famous.

Woven in Nation's Life.

The Stamp Act, the Tea Party, the Boston Massacre and Bunker Hill are matters of history and you can't forget them. They are so intricately woven in the texture of the nation's life and present prosperity, that they must be occasionally recalled and you are the wiser for keeping them in mind.

American history with Boston left out, would be like a sounding brass or a trinkling cymbal. It made Emerson exclaim, "This is the town which was appointed in the destiny of nations to lead the civilization of North America." In coming back to see Boston you are coming back to the importance of American history, its constant vitality and its unvarying hold upon the best interests of national history.

You will see the crooked and narrow streets now busy with commercial interests, and you take pride in pointing to a spot where your father was born now turned into a busy hive of material activities, and you may recall the "old familiar faces" that once lingered around. Now all this has gone. The remembrance is pleasant, but the evolution in the change is important. It shows other interests that are contributing to the welfare of the city. Don't say "the good old days and scenes have gone" and lament their departure. Don't come back to Boston and regret the changes and talk as if the present were incomparably inferior to the past. Home Week is to make one reminiscent, not mournful.

Proud of Old Home.

It is to make one proud of their youth spent here and think the old days over, but to be happy, too, in seeing the narrow streets of old Boston thronged with people and surmounted with modern buildings. There has been spared the Old State House, whose interior is well preserved and where also you can get the car that will whirl through a tunnel of modern ingenuity to Noddle Island. There are the Granary, King's Chapel, Copp's Hill and Old North Church. Time has simply stained their exteriors, but there they are in all their primitive grandeur, and your eyes can feast upon the hundred memories that these old landmarks inspire.

Look at them. Think of the mound on Copp's Hill where unbaptized infants were consigned. Nobody has touched it since you were here a half-century ago. Our theology has changed since the erection of that Calvinistic mound but no one wants the mound removed. It is a good witness that we have grown more considerate nowadays of innocent babes.

Here's the old seal of Boston: "God be with us as He was with our fathers," when translated into English. A pretty good seal, isn't it? They are still stamping it to-day at the City Hall, and this is the one thing city politics has not touched.

Grand Old Seal.

A better seal by all odds than the seal of the State of Massachusetts, which Charles Sumner called a "bellicose escutcheon." If all city seals had as much religion in them as the seal of Boston religion would not be at par in city politics.

Think how we have improved in Boston since you were here the last time. Probably you think we've improved too much. All that bog land in the Back Bay has been reclaimed, and elegant residences have been erected along magnificent streets. We are still lovers of baked beans and codfish balls on Sunday morning. What is Saturday night without baked beans? You know yourself baked beans taste better in Boston than anywhere else.

Go home from this city prouder than ever of the changes that you have witnessed and feeling better that you have once more seen Brimstone Corner and the identical spot of the Boston Massacre marked by the encircling stones.

Go home knowing now that Boston is better, bigger and busier than ever. That it is the same old Boston, modernized with a good stock of old relics well preserved. That Faneuil Hall has its doors ajar for liberty and, as Oliver Wendell Holmes said, Boston State House is still the hub of the solar system.

NURSE ATTENDS DYING FATHER IN HOSPITAL

Abandoning a life of ease to devote her life to aid the sick, Miss Francina Lentine, a beautiful young Dorchester girl, who entered the nurse's home at the City Hospital several months ago, who called upon to nurse her father Frank Lentine, for he was a patient in one of the private wards of that institution and who passed away Monday evening after a lingering illness.

Bravely and tenderly the young nurse watched over her father as no other novice in the training school of a hospital watched a patient before. Discipline at the City Hospital is rigid and reluctantly the graduate nurses enforce the strict rules of the hospital.

Miss Lentine had learned to tell the signs of the "grim reaper" approach, and it was with difficulty that her superiors persuaded her from leaving the bedside of her dying father, when her watch was completed on Sunday evening and the end seemed only a few hours away.

All day Monday she was in the sick room where he father lay unconscious and was with him at the end, which came about 7 o'clock that evening. At the bedside were Mrs. Purpura, her sister and two brothers, Drs. Gaspar E. and Frank B. Lentine.

Frank Lentine was one of the best-known Italians in Boston. For thirty years he was a fruit mercnant. He first engaged in business in South Boston, where he was located for fifteen years. Later he owned several stores on Kneeland street between the Old Colony and Boston & Albany stations, where he remained for eighteen years and accumulated a large fortune.

His wife, who died six years ago, was noted for her charitable work among the poor of Dorchester. The funeral will take place from Mr. Lentine's late home at No. 233 Centre street, Dorchester, to-morrow. A solemn high mass of requiem will be held at St. Mark's Church at 9 o'clock.

WOMAN JUMPS TO DEATH FROM ROOF

Mrs. Jennie Friedlander of No. 11 Elder street, Dorchester, who has been missing from her home since Monday, jumped from the roof of the house No. 50 Oneida street to the pavement last evening and sustained injuries from which she died at the Relief Hospital at 7:40.

OLD HOME WEEK.

A Letter From the Author of the "Old Homestead"

DENMAN THOMPSON.

It is particularly appropriate at this time, when Old Home Week has recently been observed in so many cities and towns, to refer to a letter from Denman Thompson, he who made the "Old Homestead" a household name in America. This noted author and artist, who has done so much to encourage love of home, writes: "I am glad to indorse Father John's Medicine as a tonic and body builder and an excellent remedy for coughs and lung troubles."

RELEASE MOYER ON $25,000 BAIL; TRIAL IN FALL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

BOISE, Idaho, July 31.—Judge Fremont Wood has denied the motion to admit George A. Pettibone to bail. The proceedings in court were short and the defence made no argument other than the formal presentation of the motion.

Charles H. Moyer was released at 9:30 last night. He starts for Denver to-day. There was some delay in adjusting the bond required, but the surety was finally furnished by Timothy Regan, a Boise banker, and Thomas Jones, also a local capitalist.

Twenty-five thousand dollars in cash is on the way from Butte. On its arrival the personal bond will be vacated and the cash substituted as a pledge that Moyer will return here on November 1, the date set for the next trial.

It was announced to-day that Pettibone would be taken to the Canyon County Jail in Caldwell. This jail is a little six by ten shack, located in the desert, where the blazing sun beats on it all day.

Senator Borah will prevent, if possible, this proposed treatment of Pettibone. There is a growing belief and expression of opinion in this county that Pettibone will never be tried.

Senator Borah has intimated that Moyer will not be prosecuted, because of the weakness of the evidence against him. Possibly after Governor Gooding and Chief Prosecutor Hawley have recovered from their keen disappointment over the result of the Haywood case they will conclude to let Pettibone go also.

Pinkerton detectives intimated that Haywood may be prosecuted for murder in Colorao. Just when this prosecution is to begin is not disclosed. The Pinkerton man, who pretends to know just what is to be done says that Haywood will be kept under surveillance. Steve Adams will be extradited and tried in Telluride for the murder of Arthur Collins the manager of the Smuggler Union Mine. This program was orginally proposed by Bulkley Wells and it may be carried out.

GET LETTERS FROM WOMAN TO COACHMAN

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 31.—Most amazing of all the sensational turns in the great Hartje divorce tangle are the revelations following the arrest of Tom Madine, the coachman to whom Mrs. Hartje during the divorce trial was declared to have written love letters.

Madine, after being arrested as the result of what he denounces as a fake fight, started by two men and two women detectives who have trailed him day and night, was dragged to an Alderman's office, stripped and searched, and there it was said a batch of entirely new love letters from Mrs. Hartje were found on his person. There letters are now in possession of Hartje.

Sensations piled on each other thick and fast during the day, putting an entirely new complexion on both Mrs. Hartje's divorce, which is now on the eve of appeal, and on the criminal charge of conspiracy on which the millionaire himself is soon to be tried.

Scarcely had the allegation been made that Madine had perjured himself in denying the authenticity of the original love letters when Madine fired back the assertion that the whole thing was prearranged, the letters thrown into his pocket by one of the women detectives and that Hartje's chief counsel, John Marron, had offered him $20,000 to make a statement to the effect that all letters were genuine and then flee the country.

BOSTON MEN GET $200,000 BONDS

TAUNTON, July 31.—Ten notes for $200,000, to be applied to the building of the Fall River Bridge, have been awarded by the Bristol County Commissioners to Bond & Goodman of Boston, who bid 101.37. There were a number of other Boston bidders. The Commissioners failed to sell at 4½ per cent and then offered 5 per cent. The rate of the award is 4½ per cent.

Riding Skyward on Single Wheel, Minton Thrills Home Week Crowds

Winds His Way Up Spiral Pathway 65 Feet High.

Astride a single bicycle wheel which seemed to be in momentary danger of pitching to the ground many feet below, Minton, a trick rider known as "Minton the Marvel" rode to-day upon a running board three feet wide and extending sixty-five feet into the air.

The feat was accomplished at Wonderland where it has been put on as a special added attraction for the benefit of the thousands of Old Home Week visitors.

Minton made the ascent of the sixty-five foot high spiral roadway without a mishap.

Each day during this week he will accomplish the journey several times.

The skeleton frame of the spiral roadway stretches sixty-five feet into the air. There is no guard rail of any description.

The only protection that is thrown round the lofty structure is a life saving net that is stretched at the bottom. This is elevated six feet above the ground. "Minton the Marvel" has had several spills from the elevated roadway in times past and has saved his neck by tumbling into the net.

Lately he has ridden so perfectly that there has been no occasion for the net.

Thousands of Old Home Weekers have seen the perilous trips made up and down the dizzy structure by Minton.

"Minton, the Marvel," in his Daring, death-Defying climb, Which thrills Many Old Home Week Folks.

CALIFORNIA 1907 FRUIT CROP WORTH $12,000,000

Immense Growth of State's Commerce Indicated by Railway Experts' Reports.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—The figures given herewith by the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and Salt Lake & Los Angeles railroad officials indicate the present prosperous condition of the entire State of California. The aggregate of west-bound freight of all classes coming into California now from all eastern and coast points is considered splendid business at this time of the year by those experts, the freight traffic officials of the three California terminals. They think the same of the present shipments from this State.

All congested freight has been gotten rid of and shipments in both directions are now moving freely.

What is cause for surprise on the part of the officials is the increased fruit shipments this year over the same period of last year. Up to July 26, 1906, 1,182 cars of fruit had been sent East. This year for the same period 1,505 cars were forwarded, an increase of 323 cars. Prices this year are far ahead of those of 1906, so much so that $2,000 per car is the average gross returns, as against $1,500 a car last season. So the difference between $3,010,000 gross so far this year and the gross returns of $1,773,000 for the same period of last year gives the orchardists this season a gross increase of $1,237,000.

Practically all of the green fruit going East now to Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston and other large distributing points consists of plums, pears and peaches. Pretty soon grapes will be sent in large quantities. Then will come apples, of which it is estimated 2,500 cars can be sent out of the State.

It therefore begins to look as if the orchardists will by the close of the season have sent East 6,000 cars, at a gross return of $12,000,000. Of this amount the railroads will get in freight and icing charges about $2,700,000.

CALIFORNIA'S GREAT PROSPERITY SEEN IN BIG FRUIT SHIPMENTS

The following figures, furnished by western railway officials, indicate the great growth of California's commerce, especially the increase in the fruit trade:

Daily westbound freight, 700 cars.

Daily eastbound freight, 480 cars.

Daily eastbound green fruit, 60 cars.

Total green fruit to July 26, 1,505 cars.

Gross return for fruit, $3,010,000.

Increased shipments over last season, 323 cars.

Increased returns over last season, $1,237,000.

HARVARD MAN AS CARNEGIE FOOD EXPERT

Among the passengers aboard the Leyland line steamship Canadian, which docked here to-day was Professor Francis G. Benedict, the noted scientist, who is to have charge of the new Carnegie food experiment station which is to be erected near the Harvard Medical School in the Fenway.

For the past twelve years Professor Benedict has been at the Wesleyan University, Middleton, Ct. For several months he has been abroad collecting data for use in his new work at the food experiment station.

Professor Benedict is a Bostonian, a graduate of Harvard and the Lawrence Scientific School. He is glad that he is to live in Boston once more, and was overjoyed to be here during Old Home Week. With his wife and young daughter he is stopping at the Copley Square Hotel.

Among the other passengers on the Canadian were the Hon. James L. Jenks, wife and child, of Providence, R. I.; Professor F. A. Hall, wife and two daughters, of St. Louis; Mrs. C. C. Goodwin of Lexington, Mrs. George Eastman of Watertown and Miss E. B. Sharp of Dorchester. There were thirty-three first cabin passengers on the Canadian.

FRICK TO TAKE ROGERS' OIL JOB

NEW YORK, July 31.—Wall street suspects Henry C. Frick is going to succeed H. H. Rogers as active head of the Standard Oil Company. It is not believed the reins of power will be transferred all at once. The theory is that Frick will gradually slide into the place and that Rogers will just as gradually slide out of it.

From Rogers's offices and Summer home at Fairhaven come frequent denials that his illness is serious. Wall street accepts them with a grain of salt. It is known positively that his physicians told him some time ago he must relax the business pressure to which he has been subjected for some years.

FOR LOVE, GIRL SPURNS PARDON

ATLANTA, July 31.—For love of aged Mrs. Nancy Reynolds, who had befriended her, Cornelia Ruke, eighteen years of age, refused to accept a pardon releasing her from the chain gang unless freedom was also given Mrs. Reynolds.

"Unless she goes free with me," said the girl, "I will remain here in the chain gang with her."

Governor Hoke Smith has taken up the matter, and Mrs. Reynolds will be pardoned. A home will be provided for the woman and the girl.

SPECIALIST PRESCRIBES CUTICURA

A Famous French Specialist on Diseases of the Skin Prescribes Cuticura as the Most Effective Remedy Known to Him, Charging as His Fee 100 Francs ($20).

ALSO PRESCRIBED IN HOSPITAL SAINT LOUIS

"Gentlemen: You may be pleased to learn that a patient suffering from an irritation of the skin, caused by motoring, on consulting a noted physician in Paris, for which a fee of one hundred francs (twenty dollars) was charged, was advised to use Cuticura, which advice, although received with astonishment, was followed and resulted in a perfect cure. (Signed) Lewis Gower, 1123 Broadway, New York, U. S. A., December 16, 1906."

French physicians, particularly those making a specialty of the treatment of skin diseases, have for many years regarded Cuticura as a specific and have prescribed it freely. It enjoys the rare distinction of being prescribed in the Hospital Saint Louis, Paris, one of the largest and most famous hospitals in the world devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of the skin.

Mother Of Ten

Always Kept Cuticura Ready for Children's Skin and Scalp Troubles.

"I wish to add my voice to the praise of Cuticura Remedies. I am the father of ten children, whose mother is dead. In our homes in England and America, she kept in her little medicine chest, always on hand, and often used to use the Cuticura Remedies, and they brought the best of results in children's skin and scalp troubles. These children are all grown and scattered and I cannot recall any specific cases of cure, but I do know that I have spent remarkably little in doctors' fees. George W. Rugby, 62 N. Clark St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 25, 1906."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults, consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) to Purify the Blood. # LAWSON BACKED BY ROGERS IN SMELTER DEAL?

Report Says the System Is Putting Up Sinews in Arizona Purchase.

$15,000,000 STOCK TAKEN

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 30.—Thomas W. Lawson, the ex-foe of Rogers, Rockefeller and "The System," owns the Humboldt Smelter near Prescott, Ariz., having acquired $15,000,000 of the $17,500,000 capital stock. What makes the deal of rare interest is the report that the financial backers of Lawson are H. H. Rogers and the Amalgamated Copper group of capitalists, the very men he so bitterly assailed, accusing them of every financial crime on the calendar.

The Humboldt smelter was owned by the Arizona Smelting Company, and it was from the president of that corporation, J. L. Elliott of New York, that Lawson and his associates, obtained on July 9, an option for six sevenths of the capital stock of the Humboldt. The option was taken up yesterday.

In addition to the smelting plant, Lawson gets control of the Bradshaw Mountain Mining Company, the Arizona Exploration Company, the Blue Bell Mining Company, and a number of mines, including the Desoto, the Iron Queen Copper Company and the Blue Bell in Yavapai County, Arizona, and the Anita mines and lime quarries in Coconino County.

The Humboldt smelter has at present a furnace capacity of 15,000 tons of ore per month, and the new owners plan extensions which will increase the monthly capacity to 20,000 tons. The plant as it now stands is unable to expeditiously handle all the business sent to the company. The annual output during 1906 was approximately $4,000,000 bullion.

Just at the time the option was obtained, July 9, Lawson evinced a radical change of heart in regard to Rogers and that part of "the system" in the Amalgamated copper company. He inserted adversisements in the Eastern papers advising the public to buy Amalgamated Copper stock and stating in his opinion H. H. Rogers was one of the brainiest financiers of the gae.

Lawson in a telegram said to-day:

It is true that I have secured control of the Humboldt plant near Prescott and the deal is now practically closed. I will not state at present who my associates are."

HUMAN SPIDER AWES CROWDS AT PARAGON

Aged Hindoo Does Stunts on Hanging Rope Thought Impossible.

YOU MAY SEE HIM FREE

How many have seen the "Human Spider" at his work in the outdoor circus of Paragon Park?

This Hindoo is thrilling park visitors twice every day when he runs up a vertical rope 150 feet and does such stunts as were heretofore thought impossible.

His toes are used like fingers, only they are much stronger, enabling him to run up and down and assume positions that are fearful and wonderful.

This Hindoo's strength is prodigious. He hangs by the foot, by his teeth, the back of his head, in a loop, holds himself horizontally in space with only a hand grip upon the rope, whirls, gyrates, and finally slides to the bottom like a shot.

In the evening a spot-light is played upon the "Human Spider" and it all looks weird indeed. They say this wonderful man is very, very old, and that this act is all that he cares to do beyond eating his meals and sleeping. There is no curiosity in his nature. He has travelled the world over and becomes yearly more in love with his extraordinary act.

The "Human Spider" is only one of the great outdoor features at Paragon Park. The world renowned divers are still there and the other arenic acts. When Norin permits himself to be set on fire and jumps into the lagoon from a height of sixty feet, the wonder is intense. Then Speedy clambers up a 150-foot ladder and jumps off into three feet of water, and this sends the shivers through the crowd.

These and the other free exhibits can be witnessed by BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN coupon holders to Paragon Park. A new set of free tickets will be published in next Sunday's AMERICAN, giving thirty-five cents' worth of individual amusements, besides the great open-air performances.

HOME FURNISHERS PLAN FOR OUTING

The Home Furnishers' Association of Massachusetts, through their Chairman of Committee on Mid-Summer Meeting and Outing to be held August 15 at the Rockland House, Nantasket, met to-day in their rooms in the Kimball Building, Boston, to complete final arrangements. The business meeting will be held in hotel parlor at 1 p. m. sharp. First-class fish dinner will be served at 2 p. m., accompanied by music and followed by an entertainment. Tickets are being sold at $2.50 each, which include the dinner and boat transportation from and to Boston. Boat leaves at 11:20 a. m. The committee reported a big demand for tickets and give the assurance that the success of this meeting is already indicated by the fact that an order has been placed for a larger number of plates than at first anticipated.

Tidings of Two Young and Pretty Girls Believed Lost Is Sought.

Will anyone obtaining trace of the Misses Edith and Sarah Smith, sisters, from Steelton, Pa., on here for Old Home Week, kindly inform the Old Home Week Postoffice and Information Bureau of the BOSTON AMERICAN, at No. 80 Summer street, as speedily as possible.

The Bureau is earnestly asked to try to locate the two girls by their distraught cousin, Albert Benn of No. 1 Linden place, North End. They came here from Steelton expecting Benn to meet them at the train. Through a confusion of telegraphic address, Benn was not informed in time. He has not been able to get track of the girls, and is fearful for their safety.

Young and Pretty.

The two girls are nieces of Benn's mother. One of the sisters, Edith, is twenty-one years old. Miss Sarah is nineteen. They are of medium height, with dark hair and fair complexion.

Recently Benn wrote to the girls, asking them if they didn't want to come to Boston for the Old Home Week festivities. The girls gladly accepted the invitations and told him they would let him know when they were coming.

Monday morning a telegram was sent by Miss Edith to Benn, asking him to meet them at the Fall River boat train at 8 a. m. in the South Station. The telegram was addressed to Benn at No. 16 Brighton street, West End, where he formerly lived. By the time the Brighton street people had located Benn it was 10:30. Benn hurried to the South Station, but the girls were not there.

Benn made diligent inquiry, but secured no trace of them till the next day, when he learned they had put up at the Hotel Essex the night before. They had left the hotel in the morning, however, and now Benn is as much at sea as ever as to how to locate them.

That the information bureau of the BOSTON AMERICAN has received the stamp of public approval is easily shown by the large number of visitors taking advantage of its services. A special table holds ample supplies of folders telling all about trolley trips, steamboat rides, train timetables, parade routes, entertainments and points of historical interest in and about Boston. The quickest ways, the cost and the time it takes to get around are explained in detail.

The bureau is situated on the first floor, close to the street. If you have just arrived, you should register your name and let the bureau locate your friends. If you are residents of Boston and you think that out-of-town friends will be in Boston Old Home Week, send in their names and ask them, through the columns of the BOSTON AMERICAN, to call on you or let you know where they are stopping.

Even one who has been away from Boston twenty years need not hesitate to avail himself of the assistance of the AMERICAN'S Old Home Week Bureau.

Seeks Daughters.

John Brinnellis, formerly of Halifax, N. S., would be pleased to learn of the whereabouts of his daughters, Annie and Ellna. Annie was four years old and Ellna twenty-two days the last heard of thirty-seven years ago. Annie was at that time boarding at St. Mary's Chapel on Bishop street. Mr. Brinnellis, when he last heard of them, was employed as chef in the Hall-Miss Nellie Gray of Halifax. Any information regarding their whereabouts will be appreciated by their father, John Brinnellis, No. 1 Kirkland street, Boston, Mass.

WARREN COLLINS.

Last heard of at Five Forks, N. J. Mrs. V. Congdon and Mrs. A. N. Ames of No. 3 Playstead road, West Medford, wish to heard from him. He used to live in Boston and Malden.

TWO THOMPSONS.

If John A. Thompson or his brother, Harley P. Thompson, are in Boston, will they write to John L. D. Manley, general delivery, Providence, R. I.

SALLIE BURKE.

Mrs. C. F. Jennings of Denver, Col., writes:

"I would like to find my aunt, Mrs. Sallie Burke, widow of Captain Edmund Burke; last heard of about thirty years ago. Captain Burke at one time saved the lives on a British emigrant ship, for which Queen Victoria gave him a gold watch. I mention this fact as it may locate my aunt. My name before marriage was Tufts."

GEO. N. GIBSON.

Information wanted about the relatives of George N. Gibson, born in New York City, Sept. 9, 1840. Seven brothers and one sister—or about.

EDWIN J. GIBSON.

Born in South Boston and served on a whaler in the Arctic Ocean and in Fifty-fifth N. Y. Zouaves, on the war vessel Stane in Civil War.

EDWIN H. DAY.

If the above, of Providence, R. I., comes to Boston, please inquire for information at this bureau.

Old Friends and Members of Divided Families Reunited by the American.

JOSEPH P. DAILEY.

Stout and prosperous, came into the bureau to-day with a problem to be worked out. He is a well-to-do Rochester plumber, an ex-Alderman and former inspector. He was born in Boston in a house on the corner of Purchase and Federal streets and had five sisters and four brothers. His father and mother are buried in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden. He is looking for his relatives, especially his cousins by the name of O'Brien. Mr. Dailey said to the bureau clerk:

"It was about '69 that I ran away to sea and shipped to New Orleans. I caught yellow fever and then smallpox and was stone blind for eighteen months. I pulled through after a hard fight and finally landed in Rochester, N. Y. Here I married Miss Maggie Doyle and am the father of fifteen children, two of them, Elizabeth and Margaret, I have brought with me to Boston. I have prospered in business and intend to enjoy life for a while. My greatest regret is that during my absence my father and mother died and most of the brothers and sisters left Boston. Just as I was leaving home some girl cousins landed in Boston from County Wexford. I have not heard a word of them since I have been away. Possibly some of our old neighbors may know about them.

"I went to school at the first Catholic school in Boston, St. Mary's, corner of Endicott and Cooper streets. The present Mayor was a schoolmate of mine. I was a junior member of the Erickson Boat Club and also of Franklin Hose, No. 4, when Charlestown was a separate city from Boston. If anyone who remembers me will assist in finding my relatives I will be greatly obliged."

JOHN REGAN.

Son of the late Peter Regan, of Boyle, Ireland. Last heard of in Boston, where he was supposed to be at work in a tannery. Rumored that he was in Leominster. Information will be gladly received by his sister.

EDMOND STACK

Is asked for by Andrew Hansen, of Superior, Wis. He thinks he lives in or near Boston.

T. ASHLEY

Is inquired for by F. A. Putney, of Ypsilanti, Mich. He believes he lives in Brighton or Allston.

HENRY GALLAGHER.

In answer to the letter in the AMERICAN by Henry Gallagher, Mr. David A. at 19 Woodbine street, Somerville, Mr. notified the bureau that he had married Rosella, the daughter of Charles McGuigan, and they are living for the present at 10 Woodbine street, Somerville. Mr. Dooley is in charge of the transfer department at Henry Siegel Co.'s.

The following letter to Mr. Dooley's wife explains itself:

Dear Rosie—This notice I am sending you was in yesterday's BOSTON AMERICAN, and I think it is a first cousin of yours inquiring for your father. Good-by.

SARAH McGUIGAN.

"NEXT FRIENDS" BALKED BY MRS. EDDY'S COUNSEL

Lie Passed in Courtroom—Senator Chandler Says He Will Take Depositions Despite Judge.

CONCORD, N. H., July 31.—Smarting under their defeats of last week when the masters commissioned to investigate the competency of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy refused to grant practically every proposition that they advanced, the counsel for the "Next Friends," passed yesterday in a fruitless attempt to override the orders issued by that board. They have been blocked, however, at every turn by Mrs. Eddy's counsel.

At the opening of the hearing with a motion for attachments for contempt against two of the members of Mrs. Eddy's household and the statement of the magistrate of the evening before that he had practically made up his mind to grant the motion, things looked dark for the defence. General Frank S. Streeter acting for Mrs. Eddy met the situation and when the ruling of the magistrate was announced after eleven hours of almost continuous hearing and conference he was in complete control of the situation.

Conference Unavailing.

Counsel for the plaintiffs were called to a conference in General Streeter's office and a proposition was made that they refer the situation as it stood to Judge Aldrich for his interpretation of the ruling which the masters made with reference to the taking of the depositions of New Hampshire witnesses. General Streeter claimed that the "Next Friends" were stopped from such action while Senator Chandler claimed the right to proceed under the statute. The proposition was turned down by John W. Kelly with an emphatic and unequivocal "no."

"Do you propose to insist on going with Concord witnesses regardless of the ruling of the masters?" asked General Streeter.

"We propose to go on with Concord depositions," said Mr. Kelly.

Former Senator William E. Chandler of counsel for "Next Friends" even went so far as to state that they "should go on with Concord depositions even if Judge Aldrich should order them not to do so."

An hour's conference came to naught, and counsel for both sides came into the hearing before Magistrate Cook in a mood which pointed to trouble. This feeling finally culminated in the afternoon when the lie was handed to General Streeter in the most unequivocal manner.

Lie Is Passed.

Mr. Chandler said: "By sending word to me that Judge Aldrich wanted to talk to me Mr. Streeter induced me to come to his office, and so I fell into the trap. I ought to have known better than to put myself into the clutches of Mr. Streeter, but I didn't. I supposed he was not lost to all sense of honor that prevails among gentlemen. After it was over he told me he had played this trick on me."

Mr. Streeter started to explain how he had summoned Mr. Chandler to his office. "I told you that in Mr. Demond's room, and I told you in almost these exact words."

Mr. Chandler—No, sir.

Mr. Streeter—Then you and I can't agree.

"I say it is a lie," said Mr. Chandler, rising to his feet and glaring at Mr. Streeter. "If you repeat it again I shall tell you it is a lie."

Mr. Streeter calmly listened to the tirade and as Mr. Chandler subsided quietly remarked: "I can't say Mr. Chandler as you have, that I have had distinguished men use that term about me. You have the advantage of me. Distinguished men have called you that."

Chandler Springs Surprise.

The hearing was filled with personalities of which this is but one. While the counsel for the plaintiffs were fuming with rage over the blocking of their plans the counsel for Mrs. Eddy was making their arguments tell with the magistrates.

General Streeter first made a motion to refer the whole question back to the masters for interpretation of the decision which had never been questioned until to the surprise of every one Senator Chandler sprung the proposition that they would proceed in the face of the order under their statutory right. He later argued as an objection the rule of court that depositions shall not be taken during the pendency of a hearing except with the express permission of the court.

The magistrate finally conferred with Judge Aldrich by 'phone and at 9 o'clock last evening announced that he had decided to adjourn the caption until Tuesday, August 6, at 11 o'clock in order that the court might be communicated with and his rulings made more definite.

Counsel for the "Next Friends" stated that they would probably be taking the depositions of witnesses outside the State at that time, but Mr. Kelly assented to the date. As the caption was adjourned he entered an objection to such action on the ground that it is "impossible to obtain from the chancellor any more direct and explicit order than those he has already pronounced."

HEADACHE

"My father had been a sufferer from sick headache for the last twenty-five years and never found any relief until he began taking your Cascarets. Since he has begun taking Cascarets he has never had the headache. They have entirely cured him. Cascarets do what you recommend them to do. I will give you the privilege of using his name." E.M. # NEW FEATURES TO MAKE HIT IN GOLD HUNT

New Red Dollar Girl and Mysterious Envelope to Figure Next Sunday.

UNIQUE CLUES TO FOLLOW

The new features that are to be added to the great gold hunt in Wonderland and about Revere Beach next Sunday will without doubt make this search for buried treasure the most exciting and delightful of the series that have been conducted by the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

These are some of the phases of the hunt that will be of interest to those who join in the chase:

There is to be hidden $220 instead of $200 in gold as formerly.

A new Red Dollar Sign Girl will appear. (A full programme of what the New Girl will do at Wonderland will be in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN).

A mysterious envelope that will contain $20 in gold will be in Wonderland for the lucky finder. (This novel feature will be explained in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN).

Girl to Be Revealed.

The famous Red Dollar Sign Girl who has been playing Lady Bountiful with her bright gold pieces for the previous four Sundays will reveal her identity in next SUNDAY'S AMERICAN. She will also write a story for that issue of this paper which may be of great use to those who would find the New Red Dollar Girl.

Tom Mason, the hero of the Red Dollar Sign serial that is running in the SUNDAY AMERICAN, finds the valuable envelopes next Sunday in an entirely new and unique way. You'll have to read the instalment of the story on the Buried Treasure page to learn how Tom does it.

There will also be 150 tickets which admit to most of the Wonderland attractions hidden on Sunday.

"OLD HOMERS" SEE PLEASURE PARKS ON AMERICAN COUPONS

Old Home Week visitors by the thousands the availing themselves of the SUNDAY AMERICAN coupons for the great pleasure parks in and around Boston. Ten places for which the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN publishes free half-fare tickets on Revere Boulevard and Avenue are according holders of these free tickets every courtesy.

More free tickets for Revere Beach will be published in next Sunday's AMERICAN. The amusement places are: Roller Coaster, Musical Railway, Rollaway Skating Rink, Palace Merry-Go-Round, Hurley's Hurdlers, Rough Rider Hippodrome, Automobile Race, Fairyland Theatre, Mystic Rill and Theatre Comique.

For Canobie Lake Park free attractions to American readers for next week are to be announced and free tickets will as usual be published in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

Admission to the grand theatre will be one of the free attractions, a ride around the lake in a naphtha launch will be another and the shooting gallery, always of interest to the youth, will furnish the third coupon.

"The Pretty Persian," so popular with the theatre patrons will be performed again next week. It is an operatic comedy full of instruction and funny situations.

Lexington Park and its bears, hyenas, monkeys, elks, and foreign birds and beasts, including the mad babboon, will be free to holders of SUNDAY AMERICAN free tickets again next week.

$75,000 FIRE LOSS AT MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETON, Ct., July 31.—Fire early to-day destroyed the main part of the plant of Wilcox, Crittenden and Company, manufacturers of marine hardware, on South Main street. The loss is estimated at $75,000. Covered by insurance.

PRINCE GEORGE IN CRASH AT YARMOUTH

YARMOUTH, N. S., July 31.—The steamer Prince George, while entering the harbor on her trip from Boston, struck the stern of the bark Linwood, which was anchored off Bunker Island waiting for a crew. The bark was considerably damaged and a survey will be held.

The Case of a Man Who Marries Just to Get a Helpmeet

By Dorothy Dix

A GREAT deal has been said and written about the woman who marries for a home, but very little about the man who marries for a home, yet there are more men who marry for the sake of having their own fireside and things cooked as they like them than there are women who marry for support.

In proof of this I append the following letter, which very intelligently and fairly sets forth the question from the man's point of view:

"I am," says the man who writes this letter, "debating in my mind whether or not I shall get married. Right here let me state that I am NOT 'a young man nineteen years of age, and have been keeping company with a young lady ten years my junior for the last three years and earn $9 per week,' or any of that sort of rot. I am a real man, thirty-eight years of age, and I earn $3,000 a year.

"But I admit that I am lonesome. I concede further that I want a home of my own and congenial companionship. That would be my main object in marrying. I am not in love with any woman. In fact, I have no particular girl picked out. If I decided to marry I would have to look around and find some girl between twenty-five and thirty-three years of age, whom I believed in, and marry her if I could. I am not the mushy kind. I'm not and never have fallen violently in love. If I wait to do that before marrying I am satisfied I shall never marry.

"My idea of marriage is that it is really a partnership. I want a useful girl, who will be willing to do her part. I want no girl who must have an elevator apartment and a servant to start on, or whose idea is to do nothing and to live up to the last dollar I make. I believe a man should have something out of his income, but I'm not stingy. I don't want a girl to scrub my floors, wash my windows, or do my laundry work, but I see no earthly reason why she should not keep her own little flat to start. When there are a couple of babies in the family then it will be time enough to talk about a servant girl. I would be good to the right kind of a woman. I would insist that she have plenty of nice clothes at all times, and that she went out to the best theatres, and to supper at a good restaurant at times. I would only ask that she do her part, that she dress as well at home as I do, and finally, but above all else, that she should never, never nag.

"And one more point. I want no intellectual woman as that term is used. I don't want to discuss theosophy, political economy or religion at home. My idea of a wife is one who stays at home, tends to her own business, and whose world is bounded on all four corners by her husband and children.

"Premises considered, would you advise me to pick out a girl that I think will suit me, and marry her if I can, or do you believe that I would be better off as a bachelor?"

I have given this letter in full because I believe that it sets forth with an accuracy that no woman can ever divine the attitude of many men on the matrimonial question. It would be easy enough to answer it sentimentally, and say that no man who is not wildly, frantically in love has any business marrying, or to reply to it facetiously, and remark that Turkey is the gentleman's home and that what he wants is a harem with a nice, soft, squashy female in it who is a combination of fool and cook.

Two Sided

But while there is much to be said on both sides of the question, there is a great deal also to be said about the practical proposition that the man presents. Not every man is any more capable of experiencing the grand passion and being deeply, poetically, overwhelmingly in love than he is of singing in grand opera or painting a great picture, but shall he because of that be barred from matrimony? Far from it. There may be few thrills to the platonic friendship that he will bestow upon the woman he marries, but he is a long sight more apt to make a comfortable and agreeable husband than the temperamental lover.

Moreover, the man who picks out a wife with his judgment instead of his emotions is much more likely to get what he really wants than the man who marries on the impulse of passion, and so the mere fact that a man's affections never get beyond a lukewarm temperature is no obstacle to his marrying provided he can find a girl who likes that sort of love making.

There are people who actually prefer cold coffee.

Business Deal

Many couples of married people in whom there is no very ardent feeling on either side, jog along most comfortably and harmoniously through life, and I see no reason why the form of connubial partnership that my correspondent proposes should not prove highly satisfactory to the average woman.

Possibly a very young girl might still insist upon romance, and having a man swear that he would commit suicide if she refused him, but a widow would lend a willing ear to the man who assured her of his regard and respect and offered her a good home, plenty of good clothes and sufficient amusements, for every woman who has once been married knows that the most impassioned Romeo quits making love at the altar, and not even a poet ever sings another sonnet to a lady's eyebrows after she becomes his wife.

The idea of marriage as a partnership wherein both husband and wife do their part toward making a home and building up a fortune may not be the most romantic conception of matrimony, but it is the one that holds water best, and wherein there is most solid satisfaction, and comfort, and happiness.

Probably no two persons ever deliberately entered into an agreement to share the pleasures and the perquisites of life together, and do its work side by side and regretted it. The marriages that come to grief are those that have no foundation except impossible dreams and effervescent sentiment that explodes in hot air, and leaves nothing behind it.

The one fatal objection to my correspondent's matrimonial proposition is that he asks the impossible of a woman. In one breath he says that he is lonesome, and that he wants a companion. In the next he demands a woman who cannot understand him when he discusses theosophy, or political economy, or religion, and whose world is bounded by her husband and children.

An Impossibility

He'll never find that kind of a lady. She doesn't exist. For a woman to be intelligent enough to be a companion to an intelligent man, and to be a good wife and mother, she has to have outside interests and knowledge; she has to understand political economy and religion, and have a speaking acquaintance on just as many subjects as a man does.

Otherwise she will be dull, narrow and bigoted and prejudiced, and such a bore that her husband will join the chorus the burden of whose song is, "Why, oh! why did I ever marry?"

So my reply to my correspondent is: "Marry, my dear sir, by all means; marry if you want a home, but pick out a wife who is level-headed and intelligent enough to understand what a good thing you are offering her, and, above all, be sure that she is a woman who is so well informed and sympathetic that you never get tired of discussing things with her."

SAYS SINGLE PIECE OF LACE WILL MAKE THIRTY DRESSES

$7,500 Length of Lace Makes Her Whole Gown

A NOVELTY in stage costume has been introduced by the popular Spanish actress, La Belle Oterita, who appeared recently with great success, in a scene at a Spanish theatre, clad in a single piece of lace worth £1,500.

By the aid of safety pins and brooches the actress managed to drape the lace in such a way as to give the audience the impression of a smart Paris frock.

La Belle Oterita claims that, given a beautiful piece of lace large enough, she can arrange it so many different ways that her audience will believe for a month that she is wearing a different frock every night.

FOR THE BABY'S SAKE

WHEN nursing baby do not fret, if you wish your child to be happy and healthy, and to thrive.

Do not lie in bed of a morning; rise early and take a tepid or warm bath, followed by a vigorous rub-down.

Go early to bed; take regular outdoor exercise, and see that both living and sleeping rooms are thoroughly ventilated; if possible, live a good deal out of doors.

Avoid any very violent exertion; a walk of an hour's duration morning and afternoon is generally sufficient exercise.

Avoid all alcoholic drinks (unless strictly ordered by your doctor).

Winner of Bright Sayings Contest to Be Named Sunday

ALTHOUGH the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN'S Bright Sayings Contest closed last Saturday at midnight, the decision of the judges will not be announced until next Sunday.

This will allow the distinguished judges to pass judgment upon all the thousands of letters, assuring an equal chance of winning to late comers.

The prize is a choice building lot at Wellington Hillside, worth $500, and the bright baby winner will be named Sunday.

Here are some of the "bright sayings" culled from the hundreds of letters received on the closing days of the contest:

LOGICAL MIND

Baby and I were eating beans for supper.

Baby is four years old, and I told her that she must eat her beans, for they would make her grow.

Baby said: "If they will make me grow, will they make you grow, too?"

After some thought, she said: "I guess you'd better not eat them, you are big enough."

After assuring her that I would grow no more, she said: "But you will grow older, and when people get older and older they die, and I don't want you to die until I'm big."

F. L. BLAKE.
No. 54 Sydney street, Dorchester.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE

Our little Louise, just turned three, lives in the house with her two boy cousins.

The other morning her mamma had boiled her two eggs for breakfast. She looked at them thoughtfully, then asked:

"Are these eggs good, mamma?"

"Why, certainly, they are good," answered her mamma; "they are fresh."

"And are eggs good when they are fresh?" she asked.

"Yes," replied her mother.

"Well," she said, "how is it that eggs are good when they are fresh and boys are bad when they are fresh?"

MRS. A. T. TURNER.
No. 162 Park street, Chelsea.

ONLY HAD APOLOGIES

Five-year-old Emily has five sisters and five brothers.

The other evening she was given a cent to buy an ice cream horn, but returned empty-handed, saying:

"Mamma, she has only apologies."

"Apologies?" I exclaimed in surprise.

"Oh," said my son Vincent, "she means an apology ice."

"No," said Mary, "she means a college ice."

So I sent for the college ice which proved to be some soft candy in a pastry horn.

"Now," said Emily, "wasn't I right?" It's an apology for an ice cream horn.

NEW DEFINITION

My five-year-old daughter Ethel was greatly interested in a wedding that was to take place at a neighbor's house, near by, and was constantly asking of her mother what the people did.

As the hour for the ceremony arrived she left the house and went to our neighbor's and listened at the open door. After the nuptial knot had been tied, she came home in great excitement and said.

"Oh, mamma, I know what it is—a wedding is where they stand up and say hard words."

HARRY F. MEANS.
No. 532 Broadway, South Boston.

DEFINED AND APPLIED

A little girl three years old was riding in a car with her mother and grandma and they were talking about antique furniture and the child said: "Mamma, what does antique mean?"

Her mother replied:

"Something very old, dear."

She held up her little hands and exclaimed.

"Mamma, I think my gloves are antique. They are worn out."

Then turning around to her grandma, she said, "I guess you are antique too, grandma."

POOR MAUD

I made my little boy a suit of blue and trimmed it with white embroidery on the collar.

It had a horseshoe design all over it, and when I tried it on to show it to his father he astonished us by saying:

"Say, pa, mamma wants all the kids to think Maud kicked her out of the funny part in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN."

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

IT is an excellent plan for the busy mother to sew pairs of stockings together before beginning to wash them. They can quite easily be washed and ironed in this way, and after the process it is a great help to find them all ready sorted and matched. A snip of the scissors will release them.

* * *

A clean substitute for the old-fashioned rag used with bath bricks for cleaning knives is a big cork. When the end gets soiled it is easily cut off, and a clean surface provided, and there are no folds to secrete the gritty bits.

* * *

A tablespoonful of glycerine in a glass of hot milk is said to give instant relief in severe paroxysms of coughing.

* * *

To keep the tea and coffee cups from getting stained rinse them after using, first with cold water and then with hot water.

* * *

If you find yourself suddenly out of a bath brick, use the fine ashes from the fire.

MIXED PRESERVE

THE favorite preserve of every guest I have is the following recipe: Two quarts of raspberries, one pint of blackberries, one pint of red currants, one pint of sugar. Let them come to a boil in one pint of water and stew ten minutes. Then can in glass jars.

Monson. MRS. H. L. FAGAN.

DELICIOUS SPONGE CAKE

TWO eggs, one cup sugar, one-half cup sweet milk, one and one-half cups flour, a pinch of salt, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon of soda. Flavor to taste with either vanilla or lemon. Beat it well.

HUCKLEBERRY PUDDING.

One cup of molasses, one cup of milk, one egg, pinch of salt, flour to make a stiff batter, one teaspoon of baking powder, two cups of berries. Steam two hours. Serve with whipped cream sauce and add one-half cup of mashed and sweetened berries.

MRS. M. A. GOODMAN.
No. 18 Sixth street, Dover, N. H.

PICCALILLI

ONE peck of green tomatoes, two quarts onions, sliced and sprinkled with salt. Let drain all night, and in the morning put in a kettle (not iron) with two ounces of whole allspice, cloves and cinnamon. Add four or five red peppers, cut up, two or three cups of sugar, with vinegar to cover, and cook till tender. I have used this for years and find nothing better.

MRS. E. KELLY.
Hotel Morse, Green street, Jamaica Plain.

MAPLE PARFEE

ONE pint of thick cream whipped up and added to one cup of maple syrup that has been brought to a boil and cooled. Melt two teaspoons of gelatine in two tablespoons of cold water and add to the hot syrup. Add one teaspoon of powdered sugar to cream before whipping. A cup of chopped walnut meats makes it nicer. Seal in a can and pack in ice and salt three or four hours before serving, as it takes quite a long time for it to freeze through.

The Boston American Pattern

A Dainty Kimono

No. 5,715.—This season the Japanese house gown reigns supreme and has become a fad with fashionable women to possess a number of these dainty, picturesque wraps. The one shown in the illustration is the simplest of garments to make, and may be in long or short length. It is made of figured crepe cloth, trimmed with a band of silk. Several other materials such as challis, cashmere, French flannel and silk are adapted to the mode. The medium size will require 7 yards of 36-inch material.

No. 5,715—Sizes for small, medium and large.

To obtain this pattern, postpaid, send 10 cents, with size, name and address, to the BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 230, Boston, Mass., allowing one week for delivery.

LORD ARRANMORE shrugged his shoulders. He was looking out of the window, out into the gray, windy darkness, listening to the raindrops splashing against the window pane, wondering how long Brooks would be, and if in his face, too, he should see the shadow, and it seemed to him that Brooks lingered a very long time.

"Shall we finish our game of billiards, Catherine?" he asked, turning toward her.

"Well—I think not," she answered. "I am a little tired, and it is almost time the dressing bell rang. I think Sybil and I will go upstairs."

They passed away—he made no effort to detain them. He lit a cigarette and paced the room impatiently. At last he rang the bell.

"Where is Mr. Brooks?" he asked.

"Mr. Brooks has only just returned, my lord," the man answered. "He went some distance with the young lady. He has gone direct to his room."

Lord Arranmore nodded. He threw himself into his easychair, and his head sank upon his hand. He looked steadfastly into the heart of the red coals.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Marquis Mephistopheles

"I AM so sorry," she said, softly, "our last evening is spoilt."

He shook his head with an effort at gayety.

"Let us conspire," he said. "You and I at least will make a struggle."

"I am afraid," she said, "that it would be hopeless. Mother is an absolute wreck, and I saw Lord Arranmore go into the library just now with that terrible white look under his eyes. I saw it once before. Ugh!"

"After all," he said, "it only means that we shall be honest. Cheerfulness tonight could only be forced."

She laughed softly into his eyes.

"How correct!" she murmured. "You are improving fast."

He turned and looked at her, slim and graceful in her white muslin gown, her fair hair brushed back from her forehead with a slight wave, but dropping low over her ears, a delicate setting for her piquant face. The dark brown eyes, narrowing a little towards the lids, met his with frank kindliness, her mouth quivered a little as though with the desire to break away into a laugh. The slight duskiness of her cheeks—she had lived for three years in Italy and never worn a veil—pleased him better than the insipidity of pink and white, and the absence of jewelry—she wore neither bracelet nor rings—gave her an added touch of distinction, which restless youth finds something so much harder to wear than sedate middle age. The admiration grew in his eyes. She was charming.

The lips broke away at last.

"After all," she murmured, "I think that I shall enjoy myself this evening. You are looking all sorts of nice things at me."

"My eyes," he answered, "are more daring than my lips."

"And you call yourself a lawyer?"

"Is that a challenge? Well, I was thinking that you looked charming."

"Is that all? I have a looking glass, you know."

"And I shall miss you—very much."

Seeking a Cause

"Ah!"

She suddenly avoided his eyes, but it was for a second only. Yet Brooks was himself conscious of the significance of that second. He set his teeth hard.

"The days here," he said slowly, "have been very pleasant. It has all been—such a different life for me. A few months ago I knew no one except a few of the Medchester people, and I was working hard to make a modest living. Sometimes I feel here as though I were a modern Aladdin. There is a sense of unreality about Lord Arranmore's extraordinary kindness to me. To-night, more than ever, I cannot help feeling that it is something like a dream which may pass away at any moment."

She looked at him thoughtfully.

"Lord Arranmore is not an impulsive person," she said. "He must have had some reason for being so decent to you."

"Yes, as regards the management of his affairs, perhaps," Brooks answered. "But why he should ask me here, and treat me as though I were his social equal and all that sort of thing—well, you know, that is a puzzle, isn't it?"

"Well, I don't know," she answered. "Lord Arranmore is not exactly the man to be a slave to, or even to respect, the conventional, and your being what you are, naturally makes you a pleasant companion to him—and his guests. No, I don't think that it is strange."

"You are very flattering," he said, smiling.

"Not in the least," she assured him. "Nowadays birth seems to be rather a handicap than otherwise to the making of the right sort of people. I am sure there are more impossibilities in the peerage than in the nouveaux riches. I know heaps of people who because their names are in Debrett seem to think that manners are unnecessary, and that they have a sort of God-sent title of gentility."

Brooks laughed.

"Why," he said, "you are more than half a Radical."

"It is your influence," she said demurely.

"I Mean It"

"It will soon pass away," he sighed. "To-morrow you will be back again among your friends."

She sighed.

"Why do one's friends bore one so much more than other people's?" she exclaimed.

"When one thinks of it," he remarked, "you must have been very bored here. Why, for the last fortnight there have been no other visitors in the house."

"There have been compensations," she said.

"Tell me about them!" he begged.

She laughed up at him.

"If I were to say the occasional visits of Mr. Kingston Brooks, would you be conceited?"

"It would be like putting my vanity in a hothouse," he answered, "but I would try and bear it."

"Well, I will say it then!"

He turned and looked at her with a sudden seriousness. Some consciousness of the change in his mood seemed to be at once communicated to her. Her eyes seemed no longer to meet his. She moved a little on one side and took up an ornament from an ormolu table.

"I wish that you meant it," he murmured.

"I do!" she whispered, almost under her breath.

Brooks suddenly forgot many things, but Nemesis intervened. There was the sound of much rustling of silken skirts and Lady Caroom's poodle, followed by herself, came round the angle of the drawing room.

"My dear Sybil," she exclaimed, "do come and tie Balfour's ribbon for me. Marie has no idea of making a bow spread itself out, and pink is so becoming to him. Thanks, dear. Where is our host? I thought that I was late."

Lord Arranmore entered as she spoke. His evening dress, as usual, was of the most severely simple type. To-night its sombreness was impressive. With such a background his pallor seemed almost waxenlike. He offered his arm to Lady Caroom.

"I was not sure," he said, with a lightness which seemed natural enough, "whether to-night I might not have to dine alone whilst you poor people sat and played havoc with the shreds of my reputation. Groves, the cabinet Johannesburg and the '84 Heidsieck—though I am afraid," he added, looking down at his companion, "that not all the wine in my cellar could make this feast of farewells a cheerful one."

TOMORROW'S BEST BARGAINS IN BOSTON'S BIG STORES

ALL days are bargain days now. That you may know where to go for the very best bargains on Thursday the following suggestions are made:

R. H. WHITE CO. have a bargain in hemstitched towels at 75 cents which is sure to please the housewife. They are of extra fine quality of German figured huckaback, and are large size, measuring 23 by 43 inches. They are good value at $1 each.

BAILEY'S Rubber Store will have a bargain in gloria silk shower proof coats, fancy trimmed, fitted and loose styles, and of a variety of colors. The former prices of these coats were from $20 to $30, but they will sell to-morrow for from $5 to $10.

STARR'S will put on sale for to-morrow only a lot of smartly tailored khaki suits, made from government khaki, all in Prince Chap style, double-breasted, with velvet collar. The skirts are extra full, 10-gore, plaited, with a 3-inch fold around the bottom. These are the regular $7.50 suits, sold to-morrow for $2.98.

SHEPARD, NORWELL & CO. will have on sale to-morrow at $1.50 49 dozen unbleached napkins, all pure linen, 22 inches square, with beautiful Mexican work centres. They have been selling at $2.25 a dozen.

BUTLER'S have a fine assortment of neat wash linen belts, with pearl buckles; also some prettily embroidered duck belts with large buckles. These belts sell regularly at 25 cents each, but to-morrow's special price is 10 cents each.

F. P. O'CONNOR will offer some handsome kid belts, in all colors and latest styles, formerly sold at $5, $3.95 and $2.75, marked for to-morrow at the uniform price of $1.50.

GILCHRIST'S will have a good bar-gain in ladies' white underskirts in full size, with handsome flounce, tucked and trimmed with extra quality Hamburg—excellent values at $1.50. They will sell to-morrow only for 98 cents.

A. SHUMAN CO. will have for sale ladies' Swiss lisle undervests, low neck, no sleeves, marked from 50 cents each to 3 for $1 for to-morrow.

MEYER JONASSON & CO. will of-fer an exceptional value in light mixture suits, just the things for late Summer and Fall wear with the smart Prince Chap coats, velvet collars and the full plaited skirts. These are their regular $25 suits and will sell to-morrow for $8.50. There are only six in the lot, so the early shopper gets the choice.

FILENE'S will have on sale a small lot of chemises in two styles—embroidery trimmed yoke of embroidery insertion with embroidery edge around neck and sleeve, and lace trimmed chemises with combinations of embroidery insertions and with ruffle on skirt. These chemises are slightly soiled and for this reason you can get a regular $1 value for 79 cents.

McCARTHY'S Lace Store will have on sale to-morrow real hand-made antique lace edges, from 2 to 4 inches wide, marked from 50 cents to 25 cents a yard.

MacDONNELL'S Tremont Temple store offers about 300 fine Richelieu ribbed Swiss under vests, neatly trimmed front and back, at the low price of 10 cents each. Mail orders will not be received on these.

E. R. KNIGHTS & CO. are making a special offer in handsome imported plaid voiles at 15 cents a yard. They come in black and white and fancy colors, twenty-seven inches wide, and are most desirable for Summer dresses, and just the material for jumper suits. The regular price is 37½ cents.

TIMOTHY SMITH CO. will sell children's black hose for 7 cents a pair. They are plain black cotton hose in all sizes, 5 to 9, seamless, fast color, and the regular 12½-cent value.

WOLF'S, "My Clothier," will sell at 10 cents a heavy quality of 3½-inch moire ribbon that's easily worth 15 cents a yard, in white, black, pink and blue.

SOMETHING NEVER SEEN BEFORE

At the Woodbury Institute this week you may see and talk with a lady who has had the lines and wrinkles removed from one-half the face, leaving the other side to show all the wrinkled and flabby skin that formerly covered the entire face. Try to realize this startling fact. One side of her face shows all the traces of age; the other side shows all the smooth brightness of girlhood.

It is done without electricity, without tedious massage and without cutting or the use of any surgical instrument. It is done by nourishing, strengthening and building up the weakened and relaxed underlying muscles and by reviving the action of the corium or true skin, thus restoring a youthful facial contour and a bright girlish complexion. No matter how deep or how many your wrinkles may be—no matter how dead or sallow your skin may be—the famous Woodbury Method changes its texture and leaves it clear, smooth and velvety. Our methods are based upon scientific principles and are entirely painless. Whether you call or write, your inquiry will be treated with strict professional confidence, and every question will be answered without placing you under the slightest obligation.

Wealthy Widow of New York Clubman Willing to Don Apron.

SOLVES SERVANT PROBLEM

By W. T. MacIntyre

NEW YORK, July 31.—"Gladly would I give up my wealth, my home, all that I possess, to don an apron and be a humble servitor in the home of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy!"

Mrs. Mary Green Chapin, widow of Royal C. Chapin, the New York clubman and civil engineer, sister of the late Charles Burrows Greene, broker and yachtsman and first cousin of the fifth Lady Clifton, made this statement to a representative of the BOSTON AMERICAN yesterday at the Windmill, her romantically beautiful home near East Greenwich, R. I.

"The servant problem has been solved with me," she said. "My two servants are Christian Scientists and there is never a misunderstanding, never friction of any sort. My home is a shining and immaculate example of domestic economy.

"Christian Science has reconstructed and re-decorated my home. The Windmill was once the home of Longfellow. It was an old-fashioned place and needed many changes to make it habitable. I had not the slightest difficulty either with my workmen or the transformation of The Windmill into a modern dwelling.

Longfellow's Former Home.

"My friends told me I should get a decorator, but I found that entirely unnecessary. My faith made the way clear and smoothed out every difficulty: 'Let God buildeth the house, he that buildeth the house laboreth in vain.'

"You observe the result."

The result is a charming home, filled with rare old furniture, harmonious tones in ceiling, walls and wainscotting, situated on the brow of a wind-swept hill that overlooks broad expanses of wooded valleys.

It was here that Longfellow composed some of his most beautiful poems. It is here where Mrs. Chapin will work out her probation prior to becoming a member of the household of Mrs. Eddy.

Mrs. Chapin recently became the beneficiary under the terms of her brother's will of $100,000, but one section says that no part shall "directly or indirectly go to the use of the religious sect known as the Church of Christ Science or the Christian Science Church."

Praises Science Leader.

Mrs. Chapin's views regarding the bequest and her attitude toward Christian Science led to her interview, in which she mady many remarkable statements.

She is of distinguished presence and great charm of manner. Her prematurely white hair accentuates her oval face and the deep hazel eyes have that expression which comes only to those who have found spiritual peace.

Most interesting of Mrs. Chapin's remarks were her description of her interview with Mrs. Eddy one month ago, her indignant refutation of the charge of Mrs. Eddy's incapacity and her eulogy of the leader of Christian Science.

"No one who ever has been granted an audience with Mrs. Eddy can fail to be impressed by her shining personality," said Mrs. Chapin, earnestly. "She is the most wonderful woman in the world. She is the finest personality who has ever lived."

Would Sacrifice Anything.

"I would sacrifice everything I possess gladly and willingly to become a member of her household. But I am not yet ready. There are so many others who are so far more worthy of that greatest of all earthly honors. I shall strive to perfect myself in those attributes that may render such attainment possible.

"I have been a follower of Christian Science for six years and it has afforded me the only peace I have ever known. I am a practitioner, and shall devote my life and efforts to increasing its hosts of followers and doing in my own small way its miracles of grace.

"Never has a truly godly woman been more misunderstood by those who are so blind they will not see than Mrs. Eddy. Cruel and un-Christian stories have been printed to the effect that Mrs. Eddy is either dead or so physically incapacitated that she is impersonated by another woman.

"I personally know these stories are wantonly false, for within a month I have been granted an audience with Mrs. Eddy.

"She is not infirm. She is not in poor health. She is not impersonated by another, for no living woman could impersonate her.

She Will Never Die.

"We Christian Scientists know Mrs. Eddy will never die. Her presence will always remain with humanity to temper its sorrows and create fresh joys and happiness."

"Do you really mean, Mrs. Chapin," I asked, "that Mrs. Eddy will never die in the flesh?"

"Human clay is nothing," she answered. "My dear mother has passed away, and yet her presence is always with me.

"When I was ushered into Mrs. Eddy's presence I knew I had been granted a gracious favor that Christian Scientists the world over cherish most. Mrs. Eddy rose from her writing desk and came to me with firm step and a kindly and gracious smile upon her lips. She took my hand with no infirm or trembling pressure.

"I was most impressed by her eyes. No, I do not remember their color, but I do know that in them shine the light of eternal truth and peace. They are wonderful eyes in their intensity, marvellous eyes in their luminous sweetness and spiritual expression.

"We talked for fifteen minutes, and I knew, as I had known through faith before, that all the bitter and unkindly attacks upon Mrs. Eddy were baseless and unfounded. She is eighty-six years of age, but her years give no impression of either infirmity or lack of vital force.

Works 20 Hours a Day.

"No human being has a face so beautiful, so ennobled and enriched and purified by many years of lofty thought and high purpose.

"I personally know that Mrs. Eddy sleeps only four hours of the day. The remaining twenty hours she devotes to writing and the furtherance of Christian Science.

"I left her presence as she smiled upon me from her snow-crowned face, determined to devote my life to making it possible that I become a member of her household."

Then Mrs. Chapin proceeded to give her interpretation of the remarkable will left by her brother.

"I want the world to clearly understand that it was not because of any antagonism on the part of my brother that he made such stipulations," said Mrs. Chapin. "He feared generosity would lead me to give away my fortune to the needs of my faith.

"There is no clause that would prevent me from turning over the $100,000 to Christian Science if I so desired. My brother would never have indicated the disposition of my income. The fortune already has been turned over to me.

"But I have other and large means aside, and I shall give freely to Christian Science."

$1,200 PURSE FOR PRIEST.

A collection taken up at the Immaculate Conception Church of Malden, for the benefit of the Rev. Father N. P. Brennan has netted $1,200. Father Brennan is a former curate of the church and is now an army chaplain.

WOULD LEAVE ALL FOR MRS. EDDY.

Mrs. Razal Chapin, who says she would willingly give up her fortune to become a member of Mrs. Eddy's household, and her brother, Charles Burrows Greene, who willed her $10,000, on condition that not a penny of it should be devoted to Christian Science.

$250,000 IN FURNITURE AT WHITE'S SALE

Old Home Week visitors are deeply interested in a quarter of a million dollars' worth of furniture which the R. H. White Company offers for its August furniture sale. With residents of Greater Boston they are crowding the big fourth floor of the mammoth White establishment daily.

The display is one of the best the firm has ever made. In the collection are pieces which have been exhibited by manufacturers at the expositions of the West and South, which have just closed, and the surplus stock of the manufacturers which they do not care, for various reasons, to carry over until another season.

In this quarter of a million dollars' worth are pieces of the finest workmanship and designs, which are shown for the first time in New England.

Because of their arrangement with the manufacturers the R. H. White Company is selling this handsome furniture for from one-third to one-half its original price. Thousands of the articles are to be sold for less than they could be bought at wholesale in the open market.

Sale Lasts Month.

This sale is not a sale of a day or two, but will last during the entire month of August, but naturally the best bargains will be secured by those who visit the White establishment in the early days of the sale.

A great convenience to Old Home Week visitors is the fact that purchases of $5 or more will be shipped without extra cost to the purchaser to all parts of New England.

Old Home Week visitors may purchase their goods, leave their addresses and they will find the furniture at their homes when they reach them.

There is not a piece of furniture in the vast collection for the August sale that is not handsome and substantial, for it is a rule of the R. H. White Company that every piece of furniture, no matter at what price it is sold, must be free from imperfections, well seasoned and of the finest quality.

May Buy by Mail.

With the recent advances in the prices of lumber, brass and everything in connection with the manufacture of furniture it has been difficult to offer real August furniture sale bargains. But the R. H. White Company has found them, and experts agree that their quarter of a million dollar collection is about the finest that has ever been seen in New England.

A feature of this sale is the opportunity that is afforded persons who cannot personally visit the store. They can send their orders by mail, and these orders will be executed by expert shoppers. If the goods are not satisfactory they may be returned and the R. H. White Company will cheerfully refund the money.

GUILD KEEPS OUT OF REACH OF FAIRBANKS

Politicians are wondering what is wrong between Governor Guild and Vice-President Fairbanks.

Although the vice-president came all the way from the West for the express purpose of lending lustre to Old Home Week the Governor seems to have studiously avoided him.

Perhaps there's a national issue in point. It is known that Governor Guild is a great friend of President Roosevelt who has not in any way helped the Fairbanks boomlet for the presidency. It is a matter of record that the Governor made a sudden trip to Oyster Bay Monday when he was expected at Mechanics Building to preside at the mass meeting at which Mr. Fairbanks spoke. Lieutenant-Governor Draper presided instead.

Governor Guild spoke at Symphony Hall yesterday. Fairbanks was to follow him and it was expected that the Governor would remain to welcome the vice-president, but the Governor left immediately after his speech, although Mayor Fitzgerald was waiting on the sidewalk for the expected guest. When Mr. Fairbanks arrived the Governor had gone.

Mr. Fairbanks was welcomed to Boston Saturday night by the Mayor on behalf of the city and Adjutant General Parker for the State and it was understood that he was the public guest, but the action of the Governor looks like misunderstanding heretofore unsuspected.

FINE AUTOIST ANTI-SPEEDER

Bradley W. Palmer, a member of the law firm of Storey, Thorndike, Palmer and Thayer, with offices at No. 735 Exchange building, was fined $10 in the Salem District Court to-day, charged with having driven his automobile without a license.

Mr. Palmer, who has a house at No. 140 Beacon street and a Summer home at Topsfield, is one of the oldest licensed automobilists in Massachusetts, and is a member of the Anti-Speed League of Manchester.

It was at Manchester-by-the-Sea that he was arrested, because he did not have his license with him.

FASTEN PLOT ON PRIEST BY ASSASSIN'S TRUNK

DOCUMENTS IN ARMENIAN'S BAGGAGE AT LOWELL SOUGHT BY JEROME.

The trunk of Bedros Hampartzoomian, the assasin of the rich rug dealer of New York, was taken today from his former home in Lowell to New York where it is to be delivered to District Attorney Jerome.

It is believed that in this trunk will be found documents that will connect the murdered with Father Martoogessian, formerly of Worcester, who is under arrest in New York as the leader of the blackmailing band that has been spreading terror throughout Armenian settlements of the country and who sent a death note to M. H. Gulesian of Boston.

The priest has himself, it is said, received an intimation that he is doomed to die by the hand of an assassin. District Attorney Jerome says that he expects to connect a crime with the priest that is "not bailable."

Martouguessian was in high favor with the Armenians of Lowell until the news of the assassination of the rug merchant in New York created a revulsion of feeling. The priest was held responsible the minute it became known that the shadow of the electric chair was upon the fanatical young Hunchakist.

Hampartzoomian's uncle, Steppan Matolian, with whom he lived at No. 4 Corbett place, just off Winter street, was very bitter in discussing the murder.

"Bedros deserves the electric chair for his foolishness," said his uncle, who works in the Hamilton cotton print mills where Bedros was a machine tender. "He had fallen so strongly under the priest's influence that he neglected his filial obligations. Only last week a letter came for him from his poor old mother in Armenia. She said she and his sister were nearly destitute, and reproached him for not sending money for her as he used to.

Bame the Priest.

"Bedros used to send all his savings over to Armenia until the last two years, when every penny he could scrape went to the Hunchakist cause. I blame the priest for all this. I used to think he was a true, patriotic Armenian, but I learned to know better."

Until a year ago Bedros roomed with his uncle on the third floor of the red brick tenement house in the blind alley known as Corbett's court. Then there sprang up some ill-feeling. The uncle upbraided him for neglecting his mother and for devoting so much time and money to the new Hunkakist group, of which he was the most earnest and fanatical member.

Then Bedros went down on the second floor and shared a room with Paul Bagndigian, a peddler of vegetables and as fanatical a Hunchakist as himself. Both belonged to the group which makes its headquarters at No. 25 Kirk street, in a quiet neighborhood and where Harakelism, another member, has his rooms in the house of a Mrs. Fisher.

Suspect Exposes Band.

Nicholas Milack, arrested in connection with the recent attempts of the Hunchakist Society to extort money from Armenian merchants under pain of death, has made a full confession to District Attorney Jerome, New York dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN say, adding a new sensation to the startling story of how the blackmailing organization pursued its vistims and brought about the assassination of H. F. Tavshanjian in Union Square.

It is believed that Milack's confession, obtained after a rigorous examination, may cause the arrest of many other members of the society. But the police at present are interested in the fact that yesterday in Milack's rooms, a great quantity of goods was found—goods believed by the detectives to have been stolen.

The police are certain that Milack is a "fence" and that he has a profound knowledge of the manner in which the Hunchakist thugs work. Otto Gorfz of No. 52 Union square, yesterday declared he was ready to swear that certain property stolen from him was among the accumulation discovered in Milack's room.

Wrote His Confession.

Through Gorfz the detectives hope to bind Milack hard and fast in the meshes of the law and by means of the information the man gave to round up many of the blackmailers.

Milack's confession was made by him in writing, so that should handwriting experts be called in his case it may be determined whether he had anything to do with the writing of the blackmailing letters. He is said to be the man for whose release Jerome asked when the prisoners taken in the raids on Monday were arraigned. Jerome, the sleuths say, declared Milack "willing to talk," and therefore counselled leniency for the man, whose testimony would be valuable to the State.

Handwriting experts have told Jerome that they felt satisfied the writing upon the envelopes of the six blackmailing letters sent to Armenian merchants here within one hour after Tavshanjian had been assassinated was that of Father Levont Martoogessian, who was yesterday indicted by the Grand Jury and held in $25,000 bail.

This report regarding handwriting together with statements made by some of the prisoners taken in the raids, have convinced the authorities that they can connect the priest with a crime that is unbailable.

The last letter threatening death unless blackmail was paid was brought to the attention of the police yesterday by H. A. Cambere, secretary to the murdered Union Square merchant.

Police officials and the district attorney's assistants worked all day yesterday examining witnesses and preparing to get to the ringleaders of the Armenian blackmailing society.

A millionaire witness told the District Attorney that about two years ago he began receiving a series of letters demanding $10,000 and threatening him with death unless he sent the money to the Hunchakist Society. The merchant said that after he had failed to reply to several of the letters, Father Martoogessian called upon him and asked him what he intended to do under the circumstances.

The merchant says that he asked his visitor:

"What does this mean? Are these letters my death warrant?"

"No," was the reply, according to the statement made. "Your death warrant will come in red ink."

Priest in Chains.

The authorities state that the last threatening letter received by Tavshanjian, two days before his death, was written in blood or red ink.

Every effort was made yesterday to impress the alleged assassin of Tavshanjian, now in the Tombs, with the fact that his supposed friends have been arrested. Father Martoogessian, in chains, together with the other prisoners taken in Monday night's raids, were paraded at intervals before his cell, in the belief that he found the men were arrested he might be induced to tell who hired him to kill the merchant.

BROWNS MAY GET ELBERFELD

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—A man high in the councils of the St. Louis American League Club said to-day that Norman Elberfeld, the rebellious shortstop of the New York club, would probably be in a Brown uniform within a few days.

In return Manager Griffith of the Yankees is to get Glade, a good pitcher, that he likes and needs badly, and Charley Hemphill, a first-class outfielder. The deal now practically hangs on the willingness of Glade to play in New York. The big right-hander is comfortably well off and can easily refuse to go to New York and retire from baseball.

Griffith will insist on a good pitcher in the deal, and, as he will not take Powell, and McAleer will not let go of Howell or Pelty, the deal will break unless Glade agrees to play with the Yankees. Morgan and Dineen are out of the question.

McAleer has been after Elberfeld for years, and he believes that with the Tobasco Kid in his infield he will be a sure pennant factor next season. Wallace will be shifted over to his old position at third. Elberfeld will play short, and with Jones at first and Niles or Yeager at second the Browns' infield will be a whirlwind.

Fighters Who Meet To-night

BATTLING NELSON.

BRITT FACES DANE TO-NIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Jimmy Britt and Battling Nelson, who are to battle for twenty rounds here this evening, are resting up for the fray and each is cock sure he will be returned the winner. The friends of the rival pugilists also claim to be full of confidence as to the outcome of the bout, and to hear each side talk the only conclusion that can be reached is that the fight will be either a draw or that the men will keep at it until both are torn to ribbons and just naturally expire in the ring.

Nelson was to-day the favorite among the betting people. This was on account of the last fight in which he polished off the native son in eighteen rounds. Britt's friends, while saying that there will be nothing to the fight to-night but Britt, are not coming through with their coin in very large bundles. That they are sure their man will win, they shout, but the backers of the Durable Dane are not putting up gold against wind. To-day the early birds were offering 8 to 5 that Nelson would win. That the price did not suit the other fellows was easily seen, for they scoffed at it. At 9 to 5 some money was bet, but not enough to buy many blocks of Standard Oil shares.

That the men have trained for the battle in a conscientious manner there can be no doubt, and that each is fit as the old time fiddle is sure.

Britt looked especially fine and the experts express themselves as satisfied that he will be able to put up a great battle. There were no traces left of the fast life he is said to have led for the last year and a half.

"Just take it from me," he said, "that there is going to crawl through the ropes this evening the old Jimmy Britt, not the one that Nelson beat once, but the Britt that outfought the Dane for twenty rounds and earned the decision by many miles. In our first fight I went in to win on scientific principles and made good. In the second I acted like a fool and swapped punches with the other fellow. He beat me there on account of his superior strength. Just go out, here, with all you have and get some of the easy money the backers of Nelson are offering."

Umpire—O'Loughlin.

Talk about hard luck! Well, if the Cleveland baseball team hasn't had misfortune since it has been in the American League, then no team in the history of the national pastime ever had it.

The latest hard luck story from the Nap camp is that Lajoie may not be able to get back in the game for a month or more, and it is barely possible that he may not be able to play again this season.

It will be remembered that about two weeks ago, while the Pilgrims were playing Cleveland, Bob Unglaub spiked Lajoie's foot. At the time it was thought that the injury was a slight one, and that the famous player would be again in harness this week some time.

Last night Lajoie was anxious to know if his foot would permit of play this week, and he had physicians examine it. They found several bones in the joint of his big toe broken, and declared that he wouldn't be able to play for weeks, and that if he didn't take the best of care of the injury it might result seriously.

Naps Miss a Good Chance.

If this isn't hard luck, then there never was such a thing as luck anyway. Just now, with the Chicago team on a slump, it would have been easy for the Clevelands, with all their stars in the game, to have jumped into first place, of which they are within striking distance even now, and probably have been able to acquire a lead before the White Sox braced, sufficient to capture the American League pennant.

But with things as they are now there doesn't seem to be anything else for the Naps to do but to slump as low as fourth place. Detroit has second place now in the race, and it looks as though they would be able to get into first place this week.

Without Lajoie playing, the Indians are like a ship without a rudder. However, Napoleon's are not the only services which the visitors miss at present. Elmer Flick, considered the best all-around outfielder in the country, has quit the team for the season at least; Bay, Bradley, Hess, Clarke and Bemis are on the hospital list.

Hess, although his ankle is still lame, may be able to work in right field to-day (his regular job is in the box). Bill Hinchman will go to left, and Delehanty will be chased to the bench.

The Bostons have already won two straight from the Naps, and they will make a big try after the two remaining contests.

Tannehill and Shaw will probably be the battery for the locals to-day, while Rhoades and Bemis will most likely be in the points for the visitors.

Lou Criger Suspended.

Lou Criger, the star backstop of the Pilgrims, has been suspended for giving Umpire O'Loughlin back talk last Friday. Manager Hugh Jennings, of the Tigers, has been suspended for five days for the same offense.

It was a case of two crippled teams playing yesterday. The Naps are not alone in having stars out of the game, as the locals have Freddy Parent, their chief batter this season, and Hobe Ferris, their crack second-baseman, out.

Grimshaw and Young are the only two players that were with the Bostons last year in the line-up yesterday, when the locals won, 3 to 0.

"Cy" Young twirled for the Bostons, and allowed only three hits, while Walter Clarkson, former Harvard star, who opposed him, allowed four, but they were usually long and timely, which could not be said of the Cleveland hits.

MOTOR CYCLISTS' RUN.

SPRINGFIELD, July 31.—Of fifty-five motor cyclists who started from New York City at 4:30 o'clock on a two days' endurance run to Providence, R. I., by way of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and this city, twenty-five finished here within the time limit, 8:31 o'clock last evening.

FORFEIT AT DORCHESTER.

After a hard eight-inning battle, Neponset-Dorchester forfeited the game to New Dorchester at the Dunbar avenue grounds, Dorchester, yesterday afternoon, disputing a decision of the umpire on which New Dorchester was able to tie the score, 2-2.

JIMMY BRITT.

M'GRAW BUILDING UP TEAM OF BASE RUNNERS

NEW YORK, July 31.—Without the aid of a press agent to herald his deals and without boasts of what he intends to accomplish, Manager McGraw of the Giants is rapidly selecting young players whom he will train to play baseball in his way. With a few good young fellows, coached and steadied by veterans whom McGraw still considers of championship material, the Giants bid fair to be more of a hustling aggregation next season. A pennant is not claimed for them, but they ought to at least play a snappy article of ball. Some of the exhibitions this Summer have been sleep producers.

It is believed that McGraw has no less than a half dozen new players under consideration. He undoubtedly will add a couple of pitchers. Pitcher Rudolf of the Toronto team, is being inspected by scouts of the New York Club. Doyle and Sandheim are new infield arrivals. A new catcher will be added also.

McGraw is strengthening his team in base running. It has been apparent to the fans and critics for some time that slow work on the bases was losing the Giants game after game. The older players are losing their base hits by anywhere from a step to a yard. That is why Corcoran had to go. The Cubs are no better at batting than the Giants. Their pitchers have done better work than McGraw's staff, but their work on the bases has shown up the Giants.

The Cubs are winning games by rushing other teams at the start and piling up runs in the first few rounds of play. There is not a slow man on the Chicago team. They can all sacrifice and hit fairly well. The Giants were just as well balanced when they were winning pennants. Now the team is leggy. There are individual exceptions; for instance, Arthur Devlin has played championship ball against the Cubs, and for that reason his work has been prominent in the series. But Devlin has been a notable exception. It is McGraw's intention to build up a team of good base runners. All his new men are fast getting down to first base.

TOM DREW, 22-YEAR OLD TROTTER MAKES RECORD

It was a wonderful improvement oiling the Franklin Field speedway for the races, as not only the drivers appreciated the change from flying dust, but the 5,000 spectators that thronged the course from end to end were benefited.

Though Tom Drew is twenty-two years old, yet he has more speed now for a short distance than ever in his life. It was a great feat, his setting a new trotting mark for the speedway of 30¾ seconds, even though he was defeated afterwards in the race by India Panis.

Tom Murray reported that he had sold his hotel in Diamond Hill, R. I., to Howie Hodgkins.

Lynn could not complain in the way the race committee classed their horses by the handy way that they walked off with the cups.

John Payne, formerly a prominent trainer and driver at the local tracks, is in Kentucky suffering with consumption.

Seventeen Races Decided.

There were seventeen races decided, in which forty-one horses took the word, requiring fifty-seven heats, and Starter Wates had the programme completed in less than four hours.

Fitzgerald could fly on a pace, and H. E. O'Neil handled him well, as he stood Mulneer off in grand style in the final heat.

John May said that he knew J. D. Springer, owner of the noted Sonoma Girl, 2:06¼, well when he lived in Augusta, and that Springer's father and his used to swap horses together.

Bunker Hill was back to his old gait again, and he had to be to lower the colors of Charlona. C. C. Blaney, by the way, raced in the white of the Lynn club.

Considering that "Uncle Dan" Bigley is now eighty-nine years of age the local horsemen believe it a good plan to give him a testimonial, and R. H. Ralston will raise right on to $1,000, it is hoped.

C. W. Marks of Chicago on Hand.

C. W. Marks was present from Chicago, but said that he did not ship Robert Mac, 2:08¾, for the Charles River speedway race. It was good news to hear that C. K. G. Billings is looking over some of the horses in the Grand Circuit with the view of buying and getting into the sport once more.

Altro L. was a disappointment, being far from the trotter he has been in the past three weeks.

Jim McCoy jumped into his new position of sporting editor of the Tribune with all the zeal of by gone days.

Fred Bellows kept Sunrise going all the way to beat Lady Klondike, and it was her initial start as a pacer. She pleased Fred.

Ginger Wilkes is all a man wants to handle when he makes one of his breaks, as his driver concluded once when he straightened out for a run down the speedway.

Connolly Meets Carroll in Ring Battle Tonight

One of the big attractions on the sporting schedule of Providence Old Home Week comes tonight when Bartley Connolly, the tough Maine middleweight meets Brooklyn Johnny Carroll in a fifteen-round bout at the Standard A. C., Lymansville.

This is one of the best bouts that has taken place in Little Rhody for some time as both fighters are well known and in their last battle, which went to a draw in fifteen rounds there was plenty of action in every round.

Both men have made careful preparation for this match, as they are anxious to decide a winner to-night, and it will be fast and furious as soon as the gong rings.

Carroll has the wallop of a heavyweight and never fails to put a man down whom he hits on the jaw. He never wastes any punches and is the walking-in kind of a fighter. Connolly is clever and has the punch and his left-hand work has won him many a contest on points. He holds a decision on Tommy Sullivan of Lawrence, one of the hardest men in the game to get away with.

The preliminary part of the program is made up of local boys who have gained reputations in the ring and will put up slashing bouts.

DELMONT HAS BEST OF BOUT WITH BEEBE

Albert Delmont demonstrated satisfactorily that he was the master of Kid Beebe of Philadelphia at the Winnisimmet Boxing Club last night in their ten-round bout.

It was Delmont's first appearance in this country since his trip to Europe and the Italian bantamweight showed superb form and as a little ring general was all there.

In Beebe he faced one of the toughest youngsters in his class and the German boy from Slowtown took a bad lacing, but never wilted and kept ploughing in for more as long as the bout lasted.

In the fifth and ninth rounds Delmont nearly connected with the quieting punch after he had stabbed his opponent's head off with straight lefts.

The local boxer planted several solid right body punches which pained Beebe and slowed him up or caused him to lose accuracy in his swings.

Of the two Delmont was superior in all-round work, Beebe depending entirely on bulling in and landing with a chance swing. He did catch Delmont a couple of hot ones that staggered the Hub boy for an instant, but he never was badly off or covering up to avoid punishment.

Little Italy was largely represented in the membership, and they were strong for their countryman.

Charley Walsh, brother of Jimmy, made his first professional appearance against Tom Flanigan of Cambridge and outscored his foe. He boxed cleverly and showed speed for the whole distance of six rounds.

Denney O'Loughlin of the Navy had a shade on Denney Ryan of Cambridge, who went on at short notice. Young Dennis was not quite as good as Young Mason of Chelsea, who forced him and landed heavily on the body.

M'FARLAND TO MEET YANGER

CHICAGO, July 31.—"Packy" McFarland and Benny Yanger signed articles for a ten-round fight before the St. Joe Athletic Club, of Fort Wayne, Indiana. The weight agreed upon is 130 pounds, weigh in at 12 o'clock noon on the day of the contest, August 20. Malachy Hogan will referee.

DRIVERS STILL EVEN IN GREAT HOWER AUTO TEST

BY J. C. KERRISON.

It is a grand contest which is now being fought out between H. K. Sheridan in the White runabout and E. L. Lienbach in the Stoddard-Dayton for the Hower runabout trophy. These two cars were tied for the honors at the conclusion of the A. A. A. tour and started the run off Monday, when they drove from New York to Albany, both cars arriving at the night control on time. Yesterday they went from Albany to Syracuse. They are now on their way to Cleveland. When one car makes a replacement of a single part, or fails to arrive at a night control on time the contest will be closed and the car conforming to all requirements decided the winner of the trophy. The interest in this contest is fully as great as was that in the recent A. A. A. tour.

* * *

At 7 o'clock this morning the fifty-two motorcyclists who are participating in the annual run of the F. A. M. left Springfield for Providence, where they expect to arrive early this evening. The run of yesterday was from New York to Springfield, and all but three of the starters arrived safely. The only real mishap of the day was a slight accident to H. A. Gilesman of New York, who took a tumble at the foot of Jacobs Ladder in Becket, but who continued the run and finished with the field at Springfield. The remainder of the week will be spent in Providence, where a series of races will be held.

* * *

The motorists will have their inning tomorrow when the automobile parade and gymkhana sports will be held. At first it was understood that the sports would have to be held on Franklin Field, owing to the crowded condition of the Common. Matters have undergone a change, however, and the parade will be dismissed at the Common, and the sports held there. The parade will unquestionably be one of the best of its kind held in this city. It will start at 11 o'clock from Copley square and proceed over this route: Boylston street to Tremont, Temple place, Washington, Summer, Federal, Milk, Broad, State, Washington, School, Beacon, Commonwealth avenue, Massachusetts avenue, Columbus avenue, Charles, to the Common.

The first division, consisting of touring cars, will be in charge of Arthur F. Hinchcliffe.

The second division, which will be made up of steamers and will form on Blagden street, under supervision of J. S. Hathaway; the decorated cars will form on Commonwealth avenue between Dartmouth and Clarendon and will be in charge of C. P. Whitney; the ladies' division will form on Boylston street; the fifth division, the runabouts, will form on the left hand side of Dartmouth street, facing Copley square, and will be in charge of Ralph Coburn. Prizes will be awarded for cars in each division, and the parade will be reviewed at City Hall by Mayor Fitzgerald and the judges.

The events for the Common are: Obstacle race—The contestant will drive by three rows of obstacles; each centre obstacle knocked down will take away two points and each outside obstacle one point.

Twelve-mile-an-hour race—Contestants must drive once around the track without watch and with speedometer hidden by hood; the one driving nearest to twelve miles an hour to be the winner.

Old clothes race—Contestants must drive once around the track, stopping to leave hat, coat, necktie and collar; one on each of four posts; then drive around the second time, stopping to put on these articles at each post in shortest time.

Brake test—At a speed of 15 miles per hour signal will be given at point not known to contestants; car stopped in least space to win.

Slow race—Contestants must drive once around the track on high gear, and prize will be awarded to one making the slowest time without slipping of clutch or gears.

Balancing—Contestants will drive upon teeter boards, and balance his car till at rest. The one doing this in the shortest time to be the winner. The officers in charge of the events are: Parade—J. H. MacAlman, chairman of the committee; chief marshal, Lewis R. Speare; marshals, E. Ray Speare, Lucius S. Tyler, Ralph Coburn, C. F. Whitney, Arthur Hinchcliffe, J. S. Hathaway. Judges, J. J. McNamara, Dorcey L. Greene, J. C. Kerrison.

Gymkhana—Referee, L. R. Speare; judges, J. Fortesque, George Lowe, E. Ray Speare, C. I. Campbell, Arthur Hinchcliffe, J. H. MacAlman; starter, George McNear; clerk of course, Roy Faye; assistant, Howard Lemric; announcer, J. W. Bragdon.

Special to the Boston American.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 31.—Undaunted by the awful drubbing they received yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Pirates, the Doves were ready for more to-day. The programme for this afternoon consisted of a double-header, the first game called at 2 o'clock.

Manager Tenney said this morning young "Cy" Young and Patsy Flaherty would do the pitching for the Beaneaters, and he looked for both of them to win. Flaherty has pitched twice this season against the Pirates, and has defeated them both times. He did not pitch here the last time the Beanies were in Pittsburg, owing to a spiked foot, so that to-day he made his debut here as a Bostonian. Young "Cy" worked hard in practice every afternoon and expected to be effective. For Pittsburg Willis and Leifield were the pitching choices.

Willis always does good work against his former teammates, and Leifield was in good shape and able to pitch winning ball. The Beanies are drawing good sized crowds here, and a big turnout took advantage of the bargain offering this afternoon.

2 BABIES DEAD IN FIRE; FATHER AND GIRL DYING

FIERCE BLAZE IN CAMBRIDGE TENEMENT IMPERILS LIVES OF THIRTY.

At the Cambridge Relief Hospital to-day David R. McGlashan and his little daughter Euphemia, aged nine, are probably dying from burns; little John and David McGlashan, aged five and three, are dead, and Mrs. McGlashan is suffering at the home of a neighbor from burns and shock, as a result of a fierce fire in the home of David R. McGlashan, No. 111 Pine street, Cambridge, last night. The blaze is said by neighbors to have followed a quarrel in the McGlashan tenement, during which they say a woman was heard to make a threat to throw a lamp.

Chief Inspector Patrick J. Hurley and Inspector Michael Nellan of the Cambridge police department to-day went to work in an effort to get at the facts in the case.

They interviewed McGlashan and his wife, both of whom denied that any quarrel had preceded the fire.

Robert T. Evans, who lives in a house across the street from that in which the fire occurred, told the police to-day that he had seen a lamp thrown against a window just before the fire started.

So rapidly did the flames spread that the lives of upward of thirty other occupants of the six-family tenement house, including nineteen children, were imperilled and there were many narrow escapes from death by suffocation, while the work of rescuing these was going on.

Two Cambridge Heroes.

That the fatality list was not higher was due to heroic efforts by Alfred Webster and Arthur Gardner, two Cambridge youths, who dashed into the flame-choked building and carried person after person to safety.

The entire district, a thickly populated one, was thrown into a state of panic, and thousands of Old Home Week merry-makers, rushing to the scene of the fire, blockaded the street and hindered the efforts of the firemen. In a stampede for safety several persons were trampled on and injured.

The family occupied a second floor tenement in a large six-family wooden structure. The two dead children were asleep when the fire started, and the flames spread so rapidly that before they could be reached their bodies were burned to a crisp.

Gash on McGashan's Head.

At the Relief Hospital the doctors found a deep gash on the back of McGlashan's head. They were unable to determine how the wound came there. The police are now investigating the matter.

Just below the tenement occupied by the McGlashen family, in which the fire centred, stored in a small grocery, was a large tank of kerosene oil. Being informed of its presence by neighbors, the firemen centred all their efforts toward keeping the fire away from it.

The fire was discovered in the McGlashen home about 10:30, the flames having spread so that the whole apartment was on fire.

An alarm was sent in, and persons who lived nearby ran into the house to rescue the occupants, all of whom were asleep.

When they entered the place by breaking down doors they found David R. McGlashen lying on the floor in the kitchen, fully dressed.

Mrs. McGlashen, partly overcome by smoke, was trying to make her way down stairs.

Find Little One Dead.

Firemen braved the smoke and flames, and in the second room of the apartment they found the bodies of John and David McGlashen, lying on what had been a bed, their bodies burned to a crisp. In a front room Lieutenant Cairns found Euphemia McGlashen lying on the floor partly dressed.

The girl and the father were rushed to the Cambridge Hospital. Alexander McGlashen made his escape by crawling down the piazza rail outside the house. He suffered several burns, as did also Alfred Webster, one of the rescuers.

ASK HAYWOOD TO SPEAK HERE ON LABOR DAY

Address on Common by Liberated Mine Workers' Leader, Urged by Wire.

The State executive committee of the Socialist party are in telegraphic communication with William D. Haywood, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, and hope to have him speak to the people of Boston on Boston Common on Labor Day after the parade. Haywood has expressed great admiration for the labor movement of Boston and desires to meet the members and express his personal thanks to the citizens who participated in the great protest demonstration last May. He has promised to give Boston a visit on some other date if he should be unable to get here on Labor Day.

LOSES AUTO LICENSE FOR DRUNKENNESS

The license of George C. Stearns of Jamaica Plain to operate motor vehicles has been revoked by the Highway Commission. Stearns was complained of in the District Court of Western Worcester and was convicted of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The Court fined him $25.

Upon receipt of an attested record of the court, the Highway Commission at once revoked his license.

EVANGELIST IS DEAD.

SOUTH NORWALK, Ct., July 31.—Mrs. C. S. Whitney, the evangelist from New York City, who was stricken with apoplexy Sunday while preaching in the Rowayton Baptist Church, is dead at the Norwalk Hospital, aged seventy-two.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Fifty members of the Industrial Insurance Agents were present at last night's meeting, at which the following officers were installed: President, Jeremiah Crowley; vice-president, H. G. Frazier; recording secretary, G. T. Butterfield; treasurer, John Moran; outside guard, Joseph Veader; inside guard, Dennis C. Cronin. It was reported that the union now has a membership of 180, that a local had been formed in North Adams and that steps were being taken to form one in East Boston. An outing will be arranged for at the next meeting.

CONGRATULATE HAYWOOD.

Garment Workers' Union No. 1 instructed its secretary last night to send a letter of congratulation to William D. Haywood, secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, on his acquittal of the charge of murdering Governor Steunenberg. It was voted to offer financial assistance to the striking tailors of New York. Seventeen applications for membership were received. Two former members were reinstated. A mass meeting to organize the Italian garment workers in the North End is being arranged by Dominick D'Alessandro, special organizer of the American Federation of Labor.

STRIKERS LEAVE STATE.

The church organ workers have been on strike for the past nine weeks, and are still firm in their demands for better conditions. Many of the members of Local Union No. 21 have gone out of the State for employment. Sixteen have secured work in New York State during the past month. The union has passed a vote to pay expenses if necessary to any point in the United States for members seeking work. It is said that the organization has reason to believe that the Association of Master Organ Builders have a blacklist. Two of the master organ builders have granted the demands. Four are still holding out.

LABOR NOTES.

Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17 holds a special meeting next Monday night to elect a delegate to the State Branch, A. F. of L. convention, to be held at Milford in October, and also to consider the advisability of placing another business agent in the field.

One thousand bartenders from this city will attend the outing at Providence next Sunday under the joint auspices of the Boston and Providence Bartenders' Unions. President Richard W. Garrity and Business Agent Martin J. Mattimoe head the Boston committee of arrangements.

To-day the Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union will keep "open house" at its headquarters, Hollis Hall, corner Washington and Hollis streets, for all out-of-town labor men.

'COPS' TO MEET SCRIBES' TEAM ON THE DIAMOND

There will be one feature handed out to Cantabrigians during the Old Home Week celebration that is bound to make them sit up and take notice. On Rindge Field, North Cambridge, Thursday morning there will be a ball game between the "Bluebells," commonly called the "cops," and the "Newsgrabbers," otherwise known as the reporters, some of whom are on local papers and the rest "cover" Cambridge for the Boston dailies.

As far as spectacularism goes, the game will have Barnum's circus back of the flag and pulled up lame. The "cops" say they will do things to the scribes, but the latter say that it is pretty hard to make a lot of old men realize that they are down and out when it comes to dabbling with the sphere and willow.

Roger Hurd, the assistant clerk of courts at East Cambridge, and a very good friend of the reporters, will cast his lot with them, and will go behind the bat with the mask, mitt and chest protector. A. Templeton Browne, who represents the BOSTON AMERICAN in Cambridge, a south paw, will be the slab artist for the scribes.

Louis F. Conant, who staggers under the honors of being a Cambridge Common Councilman, and the Cambridge representative of the Post, Advertiser and Record, will do an act at the initial sack that will make Hal Chase look like an old man with the palsy. Conant is only six foot two, and a specialty to be tried on the "cops" will be his taking the ball out of the pitcher's hands (from first base) and tagging a man off the base. James W. Bean, one of the proprietors of the Cambridge Chronicle, will make everything look sick that comes his way at the centre cushion.

Arthur Woodlock of the Globe will be seen in the short garden, and if any copper gets anything on Woodlock, he will have to first use an anaesthetic. Harry Mahoney, one of the proprietors of the Cambridge Sentinel and a ringer for Jimmy Collins, will do the honors at third. Mahoney threatens to fall on anything he cannot stop, for Mahoney tips the scales slightly over 200 pounds.

Frank Conant, a former newspaperman in the University City, will be out in the centre garden. When it comes to speed Conant can make Harry Bay look like a crippled truck horse. "Bill" Burton, the Traveler's sleuth, will eat up anything that comes over to left field and Jimmy Quirk of the Herald, will murder flies in the right garden.

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JULY 31, 1907

To a Discouraged Young Girl

Discouragement Is A GOOD SIGN Often—It Means Modesty and Hard Work

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner.

A girl seventeen years old writes to the editor of this newspaper that she feels discouraged. Her letter, condensed, says:

"I have been working hard, but I do not seem to make any progress. I am studying still, but I feel that I have reached my limit, that I have gone as far as I can, and that from now on I am going backward. I feel that I cannot succeed and that I am far inferior to those around me."

This discouraged letter probably reflects the mood of many young people.

Discouragement and lack of self-confidence indicate often a mental condition that needs care AND REST. They indicate, also, modesty, lack of conceit, and therefore they promise better work and better things in the future.

Fathers and mothers of young people should watch them, encourage them and carry them over periods of discouragement.

Modern study is hard. It is inflicted upon the young, upon the girls especially, just when they need all of their strength for their bodily development. Their ambition makes them work beyond their normal powers, there comes a reaction, a feeling of incapacity, and this temporary state of dejection they mistake for REAL lack of ability and power.

Such young people, when discouraged, envy the self-confident, blooming, hopeful and conceited.

But they need not do so.

The boy or girl who mistrusts himself or herself is the one apt to GROW. The girl who thinks there is little in her is often the girl that has the best future, and HER MODESTY AND LACK OF CONCEIT HELP HER TO BRING OUT HER REAL POWER.

Nearly all of the great men in the world—and great women as well—have had their fits of deepest discouragement when life seemed hardly worth while, and when they seemed to amount to nothing.

Shelley, the great poet, was absolutely convinced that he would never do anything worth while, NEVER COULD DO ANYTHING.

Emile Zola, one of the greatest of modern Frenchmen, who honored himself by his courageous fight for Dreyfus, was most discouraged in the midst of his hardest work. He was discouraged about himself, thoroughly cast down and wrote, we quote from his letters just published:

"I am prostrated, incapable of writing two words, incapable even of going out for a walk. I think of the future, and I see it so black, so black, that I recoil in dismay. No fortune, no trade, nothing but discouragement! No one on whom to lean, no wife, no friend beside me! Everywhere indifference or disdain! This is what greets my eyes when I scan the horizon, this is what renders me so sorrowful. I doubt everything, myself first of all. There are days in which I believe myself without intelligence, in which I ask myself what manner of man I am to have dreamed such proud dreams. I have not finished my studies. I do not even know how to speak good French; I am ignorant of everything. My college education is of no service to me; a little theory, no practice. What to do then? My mind is continually balancing, and I am sad from morning till night."

It was because Zola had this self-distrust, this modesty, that he worked hard and achieved great success.

In the age of study and of development each of us alone knows what goes on within himself. Each of us is his own judge. The modest man is a modest judge—he sees the good in others, recognizes the weaknesses in himself, criticises them mercilessly and gets discouraged.

This is the advice that we would give to the discouraged young girl and to all others who feel as she does.

Remember that if you do your best, YOU ARE DOING YOUR FULL DUTY.

Remember that your duty is not only to work, to struggle, to criticise yourself and drive yourself, BUT ALSO TO REST AND TO AMUSE YOURSELF.

The mind absolutely needs change, recreation, gayety. If you think you are not working well, it is often a sign that you ought to stop working entirely. You should at least change the kind of work, AVOID CONCENTRATION OF THE MIND. Force yourself to play and enjoy life until you really feel like working.

A great many of the ambitious young people in this country suffer from too long an effort in one direction.

The strongest giant living cannot hold his right hand out straight longer than a certain time. When the hand is held straight out a strain is put upon certain nerves and muscles. This strain grows greater and greater until the arm feels weak and worthless, and at last it must fall.

When you put a strain upon the mind, working in one direction without sufficient variety, you bring about a condition of fatigue, exhaustion AND ABSOLUTE INCOMPETENCY that may deceive you as to your own power.

Let the part of the mind that has worked rest and use another part of the mind.

The brain can work always, it never gets really tired. But it must be worked in different directions and supplied with different interests.

Young people approaching their full development are in need of exercise, and, we repeat it, of AMUSEMENT. The process of growth is a great strain upon the vitality. With that there comes consciousness of others, consciousness of public opinion, often an exaggerated sense of duty. All this brings about worry, self-criticism and often unjust self-condemnation.

The young girl whose letter we quote in part writes from the extreme west of this continent, a letter most pathetic in its modesty, its absolute lack of vanity or self-assertion.

We wish that we might talk to her parents, and to the parents of other discouraged, earnest young people. Such discouraged boys and girls can be made much of; they should be made happy if that can be done, and their own self-condemnation should be overcome by praise for their hard work and expressions of real appreciation.

Little Editorials from the People

HOW THE ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY PAYS ITS MEN.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In a recent editorial in the AMERICAN, regarding the "melon" cut by the stockholders of the Adams Express Company, mention was made of the fact "that it was taken from the people, and from the business men unjustly." While this is true, it seems that you overlooked the hard-working and faithful employes.

Their share in the accumulation of this extra dividend is a most important part. For it is by holding down salaries that the dollars were retained for the pockets of its stockholders. The employes have presented petitions asking for an increase in salary, which have been returned with the reply "that the business did not warrant such an increase." Immediately follows this distribution of $24,000,000, which is given away to stockholders, who have done nothing toward the amassing of such a vast sum.

The employes of the Adams Express Company are among the lowest paid workingmen known, according to the length of time they are required to work, which is from twelve to fourteen hours daily, and in press of business, eighteen hours. Such a thing as being paid for overtime is scarcely known. This is most unusual nowadays, as nearly every business firm or corporation allows overtime money.

Furthermore, they are paid by the month and not by the week, which is a violation of the labor laws. But by so doing, the Adams Express Company is enabled to put into its pockets a month's salary from each one of its employes during a year's time.

The office force receive from $50 to $75 per month for long hours of hard and steady application. Drivers and helpers receive from $45 to $75 per month. Men at the depot, who record the freight, load and unload it, receive but $50 to $75 per month. Messengers, who guard the freight while in transit, and see that it is put off at its proper destination, and who handle large sums of money, receive from $50 to $75 per month.

Men who have been in the employ of this company for fifteen or twenty years, men who have given the best years of their lives and their best endeavors to the company, are receiving to-day scarcely enough to provide their families with the necessities of life.

Do you know what moves the tides,
As they swing from low to high?
'Tis the love, love, love
Of the moon within the sky.
Oh, they follow where she guides,
Do the faithful-hearted tides!

Do you know what moves the earth
Out of Winter into Spring?
'Tis the love, love, love
Of the sun, that mighty king.
Oh, the rapture that finds birth,
In the kiss of sun and earth!

Do you know what makes sweet songs
Ring for me above earth's strife?
'Tis the love, love, love
That you bring into my life.
Oh, the glory of the songs
In the heart where love belongs!

What They Will Wear

Exclusive Fashion Notes by an Expert

PARTY collars are no longer the rage. Fewer will be worn next election day.

* * *

Senator Depew has ordered a chestnut suit woven with large checks.

* * *

Mellen will wear the same old starched and ironed sneer at the next public hearing. It is a durable sneer and warranted not to wear out.

* * *

Harriman expects to look like a Teddy bear next Fall. He is having a coat made of the small toy bears. But he would rather underwrite than be President.

* * *

Secretary Root hates Tweeds. He knows why.

* * *

Chancellor Day has had his pockets enlarged and provided with antiseptic lining. No tainted money can spoil his clothes.

* * *

Tom Platt has sent his senatorial robes to a Turkish bath for treatment.

* * *

John D. looks fetching in his oil-skins. He is an oil-skin anyway. His motto is, "Oily to bed and Oily to rise makes one healthy, wealthy and—he's a wise one all right.

* * *

King Leopold no longer uses rubber shoes. They turn blood red in the rain. Ballet slippers for his.

* * *

Carnegie has ordered a thousand overalls to wear when he becomes a poor man. They are being made by Tiffany and the buttons will pawn for a high price.

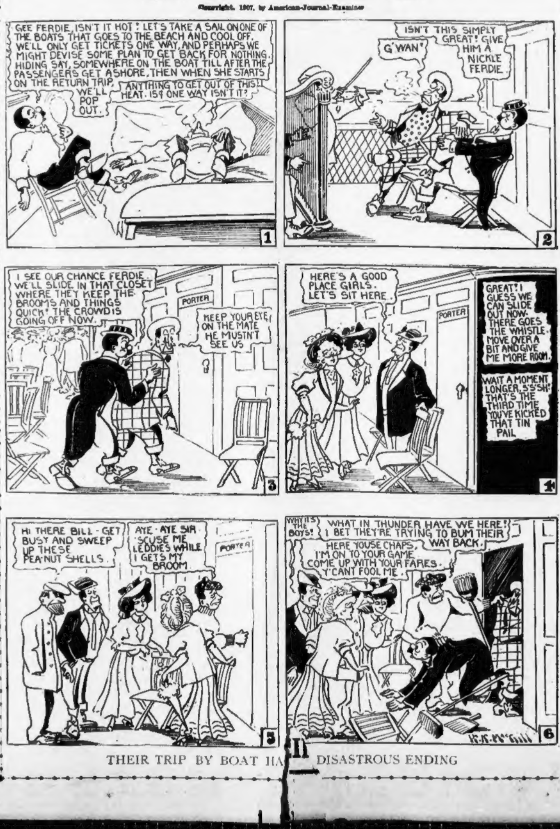

* * *

Czar Nicholas has had a Harveyized evening dress built for him in Pittsburg. It is full of blowholes, but who cares?

HOME, NOW.

MEIN LIEBER LOOEY—Ve haf receifed your letter from der T'ousand Islands und ve vas glat dot your commercial trafelling pizness gifs you such a nice opportunities to drop in on dose places vich a luffing Nature has provided for Summer resorts—if ve haf der price.

You say in der letter, Looey, dot your intention to vent to Chicago py der Lakes on vun of dose big vale-backers, und could I gif you some advice abouid der ettyket of steamboats.

I ain'd no aut'ority on such, Looey, but votefer is loose in my mind you vas velcome mit it, my son.

I had made ouid a few rules abouid vot you should not do on a big ocean steamboat, vich can also be used for fresh vater, und you should paste dese in your hat.

You should committal dem to memory in case der hat falls ofer der larboard vatch ahoy und leaves you ettyketless, yet.

Dese is dem, Looey:

RULES OF DER SEA.

Rule Fairst—Ven in doubt lead trump.

Rule Second—In case of sea-sickness go back home und begin all ofer.

Rule Next—A passenger should nefer fall oferboard eggscept at his own eggspense.

Rule Fort'—Remember dot all der high tides ain'd in der ocean, vich any bartender can prove.

Rule Fift'—If you doan'd see vot you vant ask der second mate und you vill get it—goot and hart.

Rule Sigs—Passengers vich desire to swim in der ocean vill haf to furnish deir own beach.

Rule Sefen—If dare vas no sharks in der ocean yust sit in a poker game und you vill see dem.

Rule Eight—If your friends refusal to buy you a drink go up on der hurricane deck und get blown off.

Rule Nine—Der rubber-neck vagons chenerally leave der foot of der stairs efery half hour to go slumming in der steerage.

Rule Ten—Passengers should not tease der boiler, because it is liable to get sore und make a few scalding remarks, mebbe.

Rule Elefen—Passengers on der large ocean steamboats vill find der golf links yust forvard und a leedle to der starboard of der place vare you splice der main brace.

Rule Twelf—In case of a storm at sea you vill find der life preserfers in der Captain's safe, und you should put on der preserfers in dis way: Fairst you take your life in your hand und introduce it to der preserfer. Den took both ends of der leather strap und remoof der buckle mit your teet'. Now borrow a match und see vot time it is. If it is later den you eggspected, lift der life preserfer ofer der left shoulder so dot der eggstreme southern end of der cross-section is submerged. Now unbutton der cosmopolitan und ignite der gasoline, being eggstremely careful to keep der face pointed at der north. Valk backvards five paces und fall oferboard. If you float you vas aces up. Uddervise you must haf put der life preserfer on wrong side ouid.

Mebbe dare is better rules of ettyket, Looey, but dese is all I haf to help you ofer der stormy vaters to-day.

Yours mit luff,

The Diary of a Hero

By Wex Jones

MONDAY—Everything lovely. Number of influential workers coming to lunch. Expect to get in solid with them.

Later—Perfect pandemonium. One of the workers a Prohibitionist and he drank four cocktails without knowing what they were. He fell asleep on the table and when he woke up said he would do his best to defeat me. I don't know why, for he even ate the cherries.

Tuesday—Sat on the veranda of the hotel all day and drank a glass of buttermilk every five minutes. Plan works well. Opponents visibly weakening.

Wednesday—Drinking buttermilk on the veranda this morning when a girl got in the way of a sprinkling cart. Dashed out and rescued her from drowning. Tried to keep affair quiet by telegraphing it to two or three papers. Public loves a hero, and that hill in Cuba wasn't so very high.

Thursday—Shook hands with the elevator boy to-day and thanked him for a safe journey. Imagine this goes a certain person in Oyster Bay one better. Drank twenty-seven glasses of buttermilk.

Friday—Dispatch from Oyster Bay says certain person has been pitching hay. Ordered a suit of overalls and will spend the day hoeing apples. Must cinch the farmers' vote.

Saturday—Unable to move after yesterday's work. Friend insists I must shoot a bobcat. Told him I think drinking buttermilk makes me more solid with the great mass of the intelligent voters. Besides, it's easier. Discovered to-day that cows do not give buttermilk, and thereby saved myself from making bad break to prominent farmer. Wish it was 1908.
